Chinese Reds Endorse Malik's Peace Plan

Reds Fight Fiercely On Wide Front

Tokyo, Tuesday (AP) — Chinese Reds fought fiercely for every inch of Korean ground today and even gouged out some gains while the Peiping radio guardedly endorsed a Russian proposal for a cease-fire.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway was not available at his Tokyo headquarters for any comment on the cease-fire talk. The supreme Allied commander might be called upon for any field negotiations leading up to a cease-fire agreement.

The United Nations' field commander, Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, informed of the Peiping broadcast, merely repeated what he said Sunday—"business as usual."

Red forces smashed against Allied lines early today northeast of Kumhwa in central Korea. One Communist platoon penetrated U. N. positions at 1:50 a. m. but were pushed back 10 minutes later.

All across 100 miles of front, Allied patrols hit stiff Red resistance and, in most cases, were forced to withdraw after brief fights. The Reds showed determination to hold their positions and keep the Allies away from their new defense line just above Parallel 38. They made heavy use of small arms, automatic weapons, artillery and mortars.

The attack near Kumhwa was at the southeast base of the old "iron triangle."

The Communists struck after midnight. The battle still was raging this morning at last reports.

Allied planes raked the triangle area, killing more than 120 Reds.

General Van Fleet, Eighth Army commander, made his "business as usual" comment when told that the Red China radio voiced a qualified endorsement of the cease-fire suggestion by Russia's U. N. delegate, Jacob Malik.

And the "business" was bloody and bitter.

Sabotage Law Perils British

Tehran, Iran, (AP)—A threatened new Iranian anti-sabotage law carrying the death penalty dangled over British employes of the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. yesterday.

The big refinery at Abadan stopped pumping oil into AICO tankers and began filling its limited storage tanks, bringing the possibility of sabotage charges closer by the hour.

Once the storage tanks are filled, the refinery would have to be shut down.

At Abadan AICO's manager, Eric Drake, warned Iranian officials: "If we are forced to shut down you must name responsible officials to take over immediately a dangerous situation—unless you want to see Abadan go up in flames."

Already, the government press department reported, all British workers had left Masjid Suleiman, one of AICO's seven oil producing fields about 100 miles north of Abadan, leaving the responsibility for any shutdown in that area to Iranian employes.

Already, directors of the Iranian National Oil Co., which claims to have taken over from AICO, had accused Drake of sabotage because he refused to let AICO tanker captains sign receipts for oil which acknowledged payment is due Iran.

Iran refused to let the tankers leave without signing the receipts. So the flow of oil from the refinery was being clogged.

Health Insurance Plan Advanced

Washington (AP) — Congress soon will be asked to provide free two-months-a-year health insurance for 7,000,000 social security beneficiaries, including more than 1,000,000 children, 5,500,000 persons over 65, and nearly a half million women under 65.

The proposal was announced by Federal Security Administrator Oscar R. Ewing yesterday, and it has the blessing of President Truman.

Ewing told a news conference that the program would cost about $200,000,000 in the first year, and could be paid for out of present social securtiy payroll deductions —so that no tax money would be needed.

Theft Victim Amused

Indianapolis (AP) — Police said Herbert W. Todd was more amused than angry when he reported a theft as his home during the night while he slept. Someone took two-thirds of his brick walk.

CIO Presses For Stronger Controls Law

Washington (AP) —Leadership of the CIO yesterday threatened anew to walk out on the stabilization program unless Congress enacts a stronger controls law than it is now considering.

This threat came from Emil Rieve, chairman of the CIO's committee on economic policy and a member of the Wage Stabilization board.

Rieve spoke out as the Senate began debate on new controls legislation, with Senator Douglas (D-Ill) sparking a drive to save the administration's broad powers to roll back prices.

The CIO leader, who heads the Textile Workers union, told a news conference he would refuse to be a party to the stabilization program unless controls legislation before both houses of Congress is "improved."

He added that the entire CIO take the same position.

The program now before Congress, Rieve declared, insures nothing except the profits of business and industry."

Probers To Hear 12 Dope Addicts

Washington (AP) — More than a dozen dope addicts, some mere teen-agers, will tell their stories to Senate crime probers here beginning today. Much of the nation can watch by television.

The drug-ravaged faces of some of the 12 to 15 scheduled witnesses may flash across TV screens during the two-day hearing into underground drug traffic. Those who don't want to have their faces shown will be televised from the back.

The crime committee brought a motley assortment of gamblers and gangsters to TV screens in earlier, sensation-packed hearings into gambling and other crime.

Today's hearings will be televised by NBC, ABC and CBS.

Testifies For Farmers

Pittsburgh, (AP)—Dr. W. L. Barr, associate professor of farm management at Pennsylvania State College, testified at a milk board hearing yesterday that farmers should be paid more money than they now receive for milk.

Plea For More Tax Dollars Broadcast By Governor Fine

Harrisburg, (AP)—Gov. John S. Fine said last night that Pennsylvania is confronted "with a dark, bleak, ominous situation" unless new taxes are provided.

"I do not plead tonight for any specific tax," Fine said in a statewide radio address. "I only ask for more tax dollars."

Fine blamed the tax-budget tangle that has tied up the General Assembly for weeks on "sordid, treacherous politics by a half dozen or less."

"It is a betrayal of your best interests," the Governor said.

As Fine spoke another new tax as a substitute for the disputed flat income levy was discussed in the assembly. It would be a tax on domestic and industrial electric bills.

The Republican Senate caucus, in another move at solution, set up a committee of seven senators "to try to resolve the tax situation."

The tax impasses developed when eleven Republican senators refused to support Fine's proposed income tax of one-half of one per cent. The Governor insisted the levy was needed to balance his $1,220,000,000 budget.

Sen. James S. Berger (R-Potter), chairman of the GOP Senate caucus, named the committee to make a new try of getting together. Three of them, including Berger, have supported the levy. The other four, including Sen. John W. Walker, Republican floor leader, have opposed it. The committee meets today.

Sen. John H. Dent, Democratic Senate leader, said he would reply to Fine's speech tonight over the same radio hookup and at the same time. Democratic senators are solidly against the income levy.

Fine said he found the need of additional revenue early in his administration and that the income tax was decided upon "as the least burdensome" after frequent meetings and conferences.

"That tax was not my sole and exclusive idea," Fine said. "It was a Republican tax approved by Republican legislative leaders and recommended with reluctance by a Republican Governor to the Legislature, including Republican majorities in both House and Senate. The House and its leadership have acted in the best interests of the people. (The House passed the bill).

"I knew any tax would be objectionable even if the amount of that tax was very small.

"I recommended the income tax knowing full well it would not qualify me for a popularity contest. My recommendation did not and does not exclude any other tax within the party platform which the Legislature might otherwise agree upon, although I do stoutly maintain the income tax is the best for our purposes. I do not plead tonight for any specific tax; I only ask for more tax dollars."

The proposed tax on electric bills—latest substitute suggested for the income tax—was discussed earlier in the day at a conference between Fine and a group of Republican senators.

The tax would be imposed on monthly electric bills of all users of electricity. The amount of the tax would depend on how much money is needed to be raised from such a levy to finance the State budget.

Western Union Workers To Strike July 2

Washington (AP) —A nationwide strike of 35,000 Western Union Telegraph employes was called yesterday for 7 a. m. July 2.

The AFL Commercial Telegraphers union (CTU) ordered out all clerks, technicians, telegraph operators and messengers to enforce demands for a 25 cents an hour wage increase.

Adolph Brungs, president of the Western Union division of the CTU, said they intend to "close the company down just as tight as we can."

Negotiations stalled after the union refused to accept a company proposal of a 10 per cent increase if the company is successful in obtaining rate increases from the Federal Communications commission.

Colorful Parade Marks Convention

Atlantic City, N. J. (AP)—Floats built of roses were the favorites of judges for yesterday's Lions International parade, a colorful, three-hour feature of the Lions 34th annual convention.

A yellow and bronze lion and a mushroom combined to win the class for Lions floats. A Kennet Square, Pa., committee which assembled the display from 15,000 roses said the flowers and mushroom show the town's products.

A revolving globe made of roses and orchids won the industrial-scenic class for New Jersey's District 16-D.

Both floats won $750 prizes.

Second and third places were won by Tennessee and Hatfield, Pa., in the Lions division and by Oklahoma and Missouri for industrial-scenic displays.

Cancer-Doomed Girl Breaks Engagement To Tom Amburn

Atlanta (AP)—Betty Thompson, 18-year-old cancer-doomed girl, broke her engagement to sailor Tom Amburn yesterday because she though it best. She insisted she wasn't "mad at him."

When their engagement was first announced a few weeks ago Amburn said the publicity upset his mother in Sioux Falls, S. D. He was visiting Betty here on emergency leave from the Norfolk (Va.) Naval station when he learned his mother reportedly had collapsed.

Amburn flew to South Dakota to visit his mother. The Navy then revoked his emergency leave. He was reported suffering from a bad case of "nerves" when he returned to Norfolk.

Betty has lost one leg to cancer and the dread disease has spread to her lungs. She has been told that she doesn't have long to live.

She wore Tom's ring on her finger when she was graduated from high school three weeks ago.

The high school beauty queen was told last month that her illness was incurable. She learned that her sweetheart knew she was doomed but she said he still wanted to marry her.

Betty insisted on waiting until she felt better. Then Tom was called to his mother's bedside.

"I'm not mad at him," she said yesterday. "But I think it best to end our engagement under the circumstances. I love Tom, just like I love everybody."

Truman Pledges American Support For Real Settlement Of Korean War

Avoid Further Attacks, HST Warns Kremlin

Tullahoma, Tenn. (AP) — President Truman pledged American support yesterday for a "real settlement" of the Korean war as world capitals buzzed with speculation over new Russian peace maneuvers.

As the Chinese Communist radio at Peiping echoed Russian U. N. Delegate Jacob A. Malik's proposal for a cease-fire and withdrawal of troops from the area of the 38th parallel, Mr. Truman said the United States is ready to join in a settlement "which fully ends the aggression and restores peace and security."

At the same time he called upon the "absolute tyrants" of the Kremlin to avoid further attacks upon free nations lest "you be confronted by a war you cannot possibly win."

Speaking on the first anniversary of the Communist attack on South Korea, the President declared the free nations "are winning in Korea," and that the Reds, after a million casualties, have been thrown back "behind the line they started from."

Mr. Truman tongue-lashed Republican critics for "spreading fear and slander and lies" and trying to "destroy" Dean Acheson whom he called "one of the greatest secretaries of state in our history."

A perspiring crowd estimated at 7,500 listened under a broiling noon sun as the President, avoiding mention of Malik or his proposal specifically, declared:

"We are ready to join in a peace settlement in Korea now as we have always been. But it must be a real settlement which fully ends the aggression and restores peace and security to the area and to the gallant Korean people.

"In Korea and in the rest of the world we must be ready to take any steps which fully advance us toward world peace. But we must avoid like the plague rash actions which would take unnecessary risks of world war or weak actions which reward aggression."

Mr. Truman flew here from Washington to help dedicate the $157,500,000 Air Force Arnold engineering development center, to be devoted to the development of jet propulsion and supersonic flight power.

24 Witnesses Give Testimony At Spy Trial

Budapest, Hungary (AP)—Twenty-four witnesses, all under arrest but one, testified in perfect harmony yesterday with the Communist government's case in the conspiracy trial of Archbishop Joszef Groesz and his eight companions.

Their appearance ended testimony in the case of the Roman Catholic archbishop who succeeded Cardinal Mindszenty as head of the church in Hungary. The cardinal was sentenced to life imprisonment on treason charges in 1949.

Today the prosecutor will sum up his case and defense counsel will make their pleas. The defendants, all of whom have confessed guilt equal to or surpassing the government's indictment, also will have their chance to make their traditional "last statements."

STC Dormitory Authority Urged

Harrisburg (AP) — The General Assembly last night was asked to create a dormitory authority to finance the construction of new dormitories at State Teachers college.

Under a bill introduced by Sen. Leroy E. Chapman (R-Warren), chairman of the Senate Finance committee, the authority would be a permanent body to finance the construction by bond issues.

The bonds would be paid off by the Commonwealth over a 40-year period.

Chapman's bill would appropriate $50,000 to get the authority under way.

Falls 27 Feet, Unhurt

Ottawa (AP) — Two-year-old Billy Johnston slipped out of a second story window Sunday night and tumbled 27 feet to the ground below. He got up and toddled away uninjured. His mother bought him an ice cream cone to dry his tears.

President Of U. S. Assembly Flies To New York City To Confer With Malik On Truce

United Nations, N. Y., (AP)—Red China's backing of a vague Russia peace bid spurred U. N. delegates and other world statesmen to greater efforts last night to find just what Moscow and Peiping want to end the Korean war.

President Truman gave assurances in a major speech at Tullahoma, Tenn., that this country is interested in a "real settlement" which will end the aggression and bring security to Koreans. As he spoke, United States delegates in the U. N. were watching every development for a clue to the intentions and plans of Soviet Delegate Jacob A. Malik and the Moscow government.

Malik started the whole thing Saturday by declaring the first step to a peaceful settlement could be a discussion between the belligerents for a "ceast-fire and an armistice providing for the mutual withdrawal of forces from the 38th parallel."

Diplomats of many countries, especially France, Britain and Canada, showed great interest and set in motion steps to get more details if possible.

Nasrollah Entezam, Iranian delegate and president of the General Assembly, said in Washington a Korean cease-fire would "not be too difficult to arrange," if goodwill exists on Russia's part. He flew to New York for a meeting of the General Assembly today and for hopeful talks with Malik.

U. S. Erred By Not Bombing Manchuria, O'Donnell Says As MacArthur Inquiry Ends

Washington, (AP)—The Senate's 42-day inquiry into the firing of Gen. Douglas MacArthur ended yesterday with a top U. S. air chief declaring "we made a mistake" in failing to bomb Red Chinese bases in Manchuria.

"We are paying for that mistake now," said Maj. Gen. Emmett (Rosie) O'Donnell, former head of the Far East Bombing Command.

Coupled with this testimony, O'Donnell threw out a warning to Soviet Russia that American bombers are ready to deliver "the most horribly destructive blow the world has ever seen" if Russia provokes war.

Winding up some 2,045,000 words of testimony by 13 witnesses, O'Donnell told the lawmakers that Allied planes should have been permitted to strike at the enemy in Manchuria last fall when the Chinese Communists entered the Korean war.

It would have saved many American lives, O'Donnell said, and he told the inquiry committee:

"We could have really hit them (the Chinese) hard and perhaps even stopped them."

As to fears that the bombing of Manchurian targets might have brought Soviet intervention and ignited World War Three, as administration witnesses have said, O'Donnell commented:

"I don't think the Russians would have dared move. I think they would have feared an attack on their main cities in Europe."

O'Donnell said he could have taken his bombers and destroyed North Korea within three months, without a single American soldier landing there.

He also testified that he wanted —but was forbidden after a State department protest—to destroy the North Korean port of Rashin, 17 miles from the Soviet border.

"I thought it might be helpful to have them hear a few bombs going off up there in Vladivostok," O'Donnell said.

He suggested the Russians may have a submarine base at Rashin since the Soviets lease the port for their own use.

The 44-year-old flying general said, however, he doubts the wisdom of bombing supply base in Manchuria now because he isn't sure that the Air Force could carry out the mission against stiffening enemy air resistance and "still retain the Sunday punch for Russia."

But O'Donnell served notice on the Soviets that atom-bomb carrying U. S. planes are ready to strike back swiftly, with terrible destruction, if this country is attacked.

Unification Chief Aim Of South Koreans

New York (AP)—The Korean ambassador to the United States said yesterday South Korea will reject any cease-fire that does not provide for "the complete reunification of the Korean peninsula."

The ambassador said this stand was outlined in a message from President Syngman Rhee in Pusan.

Rhee was quoted also as demanding a voice for South Korea in any cease-fire negotiations.

The ambassador, Dr. You Chan Yang ,told a news conference that President Rhee messaged:

"Any (cease-fire) proposal short of complete reunification of the Korean peninsula will be unacceptable.

"This is our minimum requirement.

"Without our participation in all discussions regarding Korea, they will be futile."

Speaking for himself, Dr. Yang said he doubted the sincerity of a cease-fire proposal by Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob A. Malik.

And the ambassador added:

"If any discussions take place without representation of the Republic of Korea, it will be fruitless.

Dr. Yang said Korea had no voice in the prewar division of the peninsula along the 38th parallel.

"I hope they do not make the same terrible mistake this time," he told newsmen.

Approve Mutual Aid

Harrisburg, (AP)—The Senate last night approved, 48-2, a bill to authorize the Commonwealth to enter into mutual military aid pacts with neighboring New Jersey and New York. The measure was sent to the House. It would permit troops of one state to be placed at the disposal of the others in the event of an emergency.

Want Terms Favorable To Red China

Tokyo, Tuesday (AP) — The Chinese Communists today endorsed the Soviet proposal for a cease-fire in Korea and threatened the United States with total defeat if she did not accept.

They also implied, without directly stating, that they still wanted terms favorable to Red China.

The Red position was given in a violent editorial diatribe against the United States, published by the Peiping People's Daily and broadcast by the Peiping radio.

Both the radio and the paper are Communist organs, but by this method the Peiping regime itself was not positively committed.

The Red view of its importance was made clearly evident, however, by the fact that the lengthy text of the editorial was broadcast fully in English, Chinese and other languages.

Giving the Red version of the first year of the Korean conflict, the editorial bitterly reiterated the familiar Red charges that the United States started the war, rejected frequent peace overtures, threatened to invade Manchuria, and withheld Formosa from the "just" possession of the Chinese Reds.

As far back as last August 20, it said, Peiping's Premier Chou En-lai repeatedly had made suggestions for peace in Korea, but "the unscrupulous U. S. government repeatedly refused to accept them" and instead "continued to extend the aggressive war in Korea."

The broadcast neglected to mention that these peace proposals called for what amounted to total capitulation of the United Nations, including Red title to Formosa, a Red seat in the U. N. and unqualified withdrawal of the Allies from Korea.

These unacceptable terms were significantly omittted from the cease-fire suggestion made on the U. S. radio June 23 by Jacob Malik, Soviet delegate to the U.N.

The Peiping account, however, did not mention Malik's omission.

Instead, it simply said, "on June 23, Soviet Delegate to the United Nations Malik, in a broadcast speech, once again put forward proposals for the peaceful settlement of the Korean question.

The Chinese people fully endorse his proposal. This is another test for America, to see whether she accepts the lessons of the past and whether she is willing to settle the Korean question peacefully."

Then, several thousand words down in the rambling review, the editorial stated:

"It is obvious that at present it is beyond America's strength to expand the war as she wants to do.

"If she is willing to stop the war, she should therefore fall in at once with the just and reasonable measures for the peaceful settlement of the Korean question repeatedly proposed by the people's republic of China (the Reds), the Soviet Union, and the other countries which desire peace."

Still farther down came the whipcracking threat:

"If America still turns down the proposals for the peaceful settlement of the Korean question, then the armed forces of the Korean and Chinese peoples are certainly able to complete the vanquishing of the enemy invading Korea, provided they continue the fairly-long and hard war with persistence.

"We still must aim chiefly at wiping out the enemy's effectiveness in the fighting .

"We do not go by the gain or loss of a city.

"The American invaders can rely only on planes and artillery to remedy their fatal weaknesses in the fighting.

"Therefore, the Chinese people are at present developing a broad mass campaign to donate planes and heavy equipment for the Korean front and enable the armed forces of the Korean and Chinese peoples to overwhelm the enemy completely on all fields and annihilate still greater numbers of American invaders.

Burglars Loot Wind Gap Shop

Wind Gap — A quantity of electrical applainces valued at $600 was stolen from the Fedon Electric shop here early yesterday, according to Wind Gap Police Chief Clarence Bickert and William J. Hontz, Northampton county detective.

The burglars made their entrance by breaking a window pane in a door panel. The missing items — irons, clocks, toasters and other household equipment—were all small and easily handled, the officers said.

INDECISION AT THE OLD SWIMMIN' HOLE

Sweet Dream

Here are four headlines that appeared the same day recently in The Press:

"U.S. Employes Here Seeking 17% Pay Boost;" "Legislators Want Expense Account Boost;" "Schools Here in Final Plea for State Aid;" "Shorter Working Hours Urged for City Firemen, Cops."

They all mean the same thing. And, no doubt, all involved can make out perfectly reasonable arguments why they should have more money. Almost anyone can these days.

But the headlines we are waiting for will go something like this: "Federal Taxes Cut 25%;" "Governor Slashes Budget;" Truman Admits Taxpayers on Way to Poor House;" "Public Official Wants His Job Abolished."

That will be the day, brother.

Just a Steak Orgy?

Steak and potato men will understand the situation if it turns out that the missing British diplomats, Donald D. MacLean and Guy Burgess, shipped out to Buenos Aires, as the latest rumor has it.

Argentina is the principal source of Britain's beef, now in such short supply at home that consumers are restricted to dime-a-week purchases. Ten cents won't buy very much sirloin, even under the devalued pound.

If steak is the answer to the disappearance of the two men, instead of an ambition to become Soviet commissars, as some observers had speculated, it would be a happy ending to the most intriguing mystery of the day.

But it will be sadly disillusioning to the readers of detective fiction if Senor Peron's amateur sleuths solve this case after both Scotland Yard and equally celebrated French detectives have fallen down on the job.

The Loyalty Oath

Pennsylvania has had a dispute going for months over a bill in the State Legislature to require a loyalty oath of public employes, including teachers in State-supported schools.

The bill, sponsored by Senator Albert R. Pechan, of Ford City, has passed the Senate and is now in the House. It has been revised to meet some of the objections raised against it.

While this dispute goes on, the U.S. Supreme Court provides advice on the constitutionality of such a bill, and also some guideposts which the legislators should consider.

The City of Los Angeles required a loyalty oath of its employes, together with an affidavit stating any connections with the Communist party.

Seventeen of the employes refused to sign and were discharged. They fought the case all the way to the highest court.

The court held the other day, by a 5-to-4 decision, that the loyalty oath and affidavit were constitutional. But the majority added some advice in how to administer such requirements.

Consideration must be given, Justice Clark said, to "those persons who during their affiliation with a proscribed organization were innocent of its purpose."

Consideration must be given, Justice Clark said, to those who joined subversive organizations, but later withdrew when they learned their true character. And to those who were members of organizations which were not subversive at the time of membership, but were subversive at some other time.

The House State Government Committee, which now has Pennsylvania's loyalty oath bill, should study the Supreme Court decision carefully and bring its bill into conformity.

Having thus drafted a proper bill, the Legislation should go ahead and pass it. It's constitutional.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

There's a neat twist in this story of Sam Levenson's. A cloak and suit manufacturer, obviously born abroad, was taunted on his Americanism by a bigoted blueblood. "What kind f American are you, after all?" sneered the blue-blood. "Why, my ancestors came over on the Mayflower." The cloak and suit man, unperturbed, replied, "Maybe it's lucky they did. By the time I arrived, the immigration laws were a lot stricter."

Gertrude Lawrence was starring in a London play that was honored by a visit from the King and Queen. As Queen Elizabeth entered the Royal Box, the entire audience arose to acclaim her. Miss Lawrence, watching from the wings, murmured, "What an entrance!" Noel Coward, on tiptoe behind her, added, "What a part!"

A fading actress complained to Critic George Jean Nathan, "I don't see why the manager won't offer me a decent part. I'm only approaching forty." "Yes, my dear," agreed Nathan, "but from which direction?"

Hollywood

By Gene Handsaker

There was a love story, and the leads weren't especially handsome. They looked like a couple of rather homely supporting players whose names I couldn't recall. Lana Turner appeared briefly, behind a cigar counter. Alan Ladd was in a few scenes as the frozen-faced villian. But the story concentrated on the ordinary-looking couple and their everyday troubles with the kids and the budget. It was believable as anything.

There was a musical, and it didn't happen backstage. The principals weren't two hoofers who quarreled and made up, quarreled and made up through various rehearsals right up to the Broadway opening. No, these again were ordinary folk. The girl sang in the choir on Sundays. The whole family liked to sing and play musical instruments around the piano. It could have happened in my own living room.

Then a murder mystery came on. The funny part was, it was easy to follow. It kept you guessing, but there weren't a lot of false clues dragged in, and the policenman wasn't a dumb flatfoot. In fact, it was he who solved the crime while the private eye, looking rather silly, overlooked the most important clue.

Next, a western flashed on my dream-screen. It didn't open on a gang of robbers holding up a stagecoach, and the leading lady wasn't a saloon hostess. She was a looker, all right, but I believe she was the schoolmarm. There was consideratble shooting and fist-fighting at times, but nobody got his hand crushed or an arrow shot through him in a close-up. Around the campfire, somebody blew a tune on a harmonica. But it wasn't 'Oh, Susanna."

A war picture appeared after that. Almost incredibly, there was no heart-tugging, baby-faced rookie killed off in the last reel. There was no wisecracking soldier making quips about his officers under heavy fire. The comedy relief was distributed among several members of the cast.

These Days — By George E. Sokolsky

Sokolsky

The Cost of Pessimism

An optimist is a person who believes that if you live right and think straight and cut no corners, the results will be favorable.

A pesimist is a person who is sure that the world is going to the dogs anyhow and that a bit of lying, creating, grafting and similar devices will not do any particular harm to an already incurable situation.

The late Harry Hopkins was a philosipher of pessimism, a sort of New Deal Schopenhauer. He assumed that the American people were so dumb that they would fall for any fallacy, if competently packaged. Harry Hopkins died and I have noted that only 1, the incurable optimist, ever recall his name.

Franklin D. Roosevelt also was a pessimist and therefore gave away the game at Teheran and Yalta. An optimist holds his cards close to his waist-line in the hope that a pair of jacks, if properly concealed emotionally, might, in the long run, win a hand. And it sometimes does, particularly if the other players are pessimists.

Roosevelt threw his hand down when Stalin had nothing to show. At Teheran and Yalta, and later at Potsdam, where Harry Truman sat in, Stalin walked off with all the chips.

Some say that Stalin was bluffing then and is bluffing now. They say that all his threats and hot and cold wars are just bluffs. But it got him an 800,000,000 population and rich lands from the Elbe to the Pacific.

Actually, Stalin, like all Marxists, is an optimist in the sense that he believes that his success is inevitable and therefore he can afford to take big chances. The initial slogan of Marxism, "you have nothing to lose but your chains,' is a wonderfully hopeful statement because if there is nothing to lose, everything is a gain. It is like when I go broke paying taxes, I still feel cheerful because I am not as poor as my father was either in monetary or non-monetary benefits. It is something to think about.

And that brings one to the Truman administration. Harry Truman is a pessimist and you can see it on his face, even when he laughs. He just cannot believe that he is actually president of the United States. All the time, he has to prove to himself that it really is true. He struts; he writes overpowering letters; he attacks Congerss; he over-rides the Joint Chiefs of Staff; he makes war without the consent of Congress. He has a wonderful time proving to himself that he is really and truly president of the United States!

That alone explains the curious episode of the firing of General MacArthur. You can read all the millions of words of testimony and there is not a plausible story as to why MacArthur was fired at the precise moment and in such a cruel manner. No matter how faithful servitors try to cover the master's whimsicallities, it was he who did the deed to assert that he was the boss. And nobody was telling him that he was not the boss!

Actually, nobody was questioning his legal and constitutional authority because no one could. The President may, in all his might, remove any general or admiral or cabinet officer, at will.

The MacArthur incident was one of many such exhibiitons of fear. It is the fear of the dowager who dies not belong. It is the fear of the parvenu who continues to eat peas with a knife. It is the fear of the foreman who marries the boss's daughter and expects the shop to rib him everlastingly.

The probability is that if left in his own milieu, Harry Truman would have remained an optimist, believeing that a deal made over a poker table, assisted by properly aged bourbon, must produce favorable results if the players abide by Hoyle, more or less.

But in the curious play of historic events, Harry Truman finds forces at work which baffle him. That is why he announces regularly that he is a great student of history, the idea being that he knows what he is doing because it is in a book.

Unfortunately, his conduct does not support the claim to knowledge.. For instance, he does not seem to know the history of Manchuria or even Russia, from the way he acts.

This vaunted knowledge of history, in a statesman of Mr. Truman's position, is an overemphasis of the usual: that is, a president of the United States is expected to know some history.

Washington Report

By Fulton Lewis Jr.

Washington, June 26 — Washington bureaucrats who love to impose controls on us tax-payers are getting the shock of their lives. Twenty-one of the 48 State Legislatures already have approved resolutions calling for controls on Federal taxing authority.

When and if thirty-two states —only eleven more—approve similar resolutions Congress will be required to call a Constitutional convention or submit to the states a new amendment to the Constitution carrying out the mandate of the legislative resolutions. Such a move would in effect restrict the 16th amendment (the income tax amendment) that now allows the Federal government to tax us until we're economically anemic.

The tax control proposal that is giving bureaucrats nightmares at the moment would put a 25 per cent maximum limit on Federal income, corporation, gift and inheritance taxes, except in time of war.

Right now, surtax bracket rates eat up as much as 91 per cent of an individual's income, while corporation incomes over $25,000 are taxed at a rate of 47 per cent.

Some states even propose putting all war taxes in a separate tax bracket, which might help the military tighten the purse strings in time of war or national defense buildups.

Most of the strength for the tax control program comes from New England, mid and far western states. Louisiana and Texas are the only southern states which thus far have approved the proposal.

A coalition of Democrats and Republicans in Congress right now is trying to hack its way through the jungles of annual appropriation bills. They have managed to whack a few dollars off here and there but most of them admit it's a long haul to real economy.

When the Federal income tax was first proposed, critics warned it would usher in the wildest era of Federal spending that ever hit a modern nation. They were so right that somebody ought to erect a monument to their memory, say across the street from the White House.

With new taxes on the horizon for both persons and corporations the 21 states now fed up with the wild-eyed budget policies in Washington are putting steam behind their proposal to control the control-loving bureaucrats.

High Federal taxation now makes it tough for states to find tax money. They have to scrounge around picking up the leavings after Federal authorities have swept through the pockets of their corporations and individuals.

Now that the tax control heat is just beginning to singe the big spenders in Congress, you can expect opposition to the plan to grow. There is some talk already that all the tax control proposal would do is create huge annual deficits, since the bureaucrats would go on spending just the same.

The obvious cure for that one is to include in the Constitutional amendment an additional curb — beside the 25 per cent tax lid— that if it isn't in the Federal Treasury it can't be spent. This would paralyze a few hundred deficit spending experts — most of whom clutter up the White House corridors. They'd drop dead if they couldn't spend what they haven't got by mortgaging us taxpayers for the next couple of decades.

Most of the states are buying the tax control plan on the basis that Congress is unable to do any effective spending trimming, and that Federal taxing power is drying up investment capital in the states. In fact it's almost impossible for a middling sized corporation to start expanding or for a new one to start, without borrowing from the government —which is just the way the planners want it. We should all be disabused by now of the idea that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and other lending agencies were set up just to help out business. They've been operated as slot machines for political payoffs.

The President wants to spend $71,000,000,000 beginning July 1. The total tax take calls for $65,000,000,000, wheedled out of all of us just for fiscal 1952. Just how much of the $71,000,000,000 will be wasted, only God and the bureaucrats know. By cutting down the kitty to 25 per cent of what we earn we could put the halter on the big spenders. Barring a war, if it wasn't enough in any given year we could put a special tax on the bureaucrats. Something like 50 per cent of their annual incomes, if they spend more than allowed, and 25 per cen of their incomes if they fail to r. luce their spending every year. I'd like to be around for this one.

Looking at Life

By Erich Brandeis

Brandeis

This unique character I promised to tell you about was something like a ground keeper or gardener at the Schwenkfelder church.

We had stopped the car on the road in front of the buildings wondering what such a magnificent structure was doing away out here among the farms.

This fellow was swinging something that looked like a golf stick, but turned out to be a scythe.

When he saw us he waved at us with a big grin on his face. I beckoned him to come over. I wanted to find out more about this Schwenkfelder church.

He was somewhere between fifty and sixty—with these folk who spend so much time outdoors, you can never really tell their age. He wore the wide-brimmed hat of the Mennonites, but otherwise was dressed just like any farmer.

He told us about the Schwenkfelder sect and gave us the figures I quoted yesterday.

I asked him whether he was a Schwenkfelder.

No, he told us. He was brought up a Mennonite (of another sect—there are twelve of them), but he did not attend church any more.

His own people considered him an apostate. When he was a kid he didn't quite comprehend all their theories and rules.

So he asked too many questions, he said.

He wanted to know the whys and wherefores of his religion and of religion in general.

He wanted to know more about this heaven and hell business.

"The church folks didn't like that," he said. "They said you aren't supposed to ask what and why about religion. You do what you are told to do and believe what you are told to believe."

And, with that contagious grin of his, he added: "Somehow I don't see how anybody can TELL you what to believe, or force you to believe anything.

"Belief is something that comes out of the heart," he said. "You can't believe something just because it's in a book or because somebody tells you you've got to believe it."

"So now," he said, "they consider me something of a nut and leave me alone."

But he has his own religion, he told us.

He doesn't believe in heaven or hell.

"But neither do I believe in death. Oh yes, the old body dies when it has lived long enough.

"But what's the body, anyway? The soul never dies. I know that I am going to live forever. God and Christ promised us that. You just wait and see.

"Long after I have been buried I am going to run into you again somewhere, somehow. And when I do, I'm going to remind you of today."

Then he told us four years ago his wife left him after many years of marriage.

"But I am as happy as can be."

Gosh, I said to myself, this fellow talks just like so many folks when the wife runs away.

"How can you be happy when your wife ran away after all those years together?"

"Oh, I don't mean she ran away. She just died. But that doesn't make any difference. She is with me every day and every night. We are always together. Her body is gone, but she isn't. And when I go, we'll still be together."

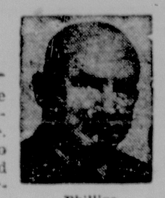

Do you think that fellow is a nut? I don't.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

It Won't Be Too Tough

The more we think of the telecasting of sports events in movie theaters the more we are convinced the movie house will soon stage a comeback, replacing the corner saloon and the home as the outlet for telecastings of many features now obtainable for free. We predict the Derby, most football games, future Kefauver hearings and even political conventions will come via the pay-as-you-enter routine. It will be hard for either political party to pass up the campaign money it can raise that way. In football we may even see a contest in one bowl delivered by video in a dozen other bowls.

While the video fans were at first loudly squawking against the trend, many of them are getting reconciled. They say, they would gladly pay the half-dollar demanded in a movie house since it will give them an outdoor fight without the singing commercials, the dancing beer cans and the shaving sales talks. In the theater telecasts you can watch the fighters between rounds instead of two guys in a Pullman washroom explaining how to change razor blades.

Fight nights in the American television - equipped home were getting tough, anyhow. Too many friends and neighbors dropped in to make a night of it. It wouldn't be so bad if they all liked the same drink, but it took a lot of fancy drink mixing to serve up a heavyweight fight satisfactorily. It was also up to the head of the house to eliminate the "snow" and stop the shimmying picture. We remember one fight night when something went wrong with the outside aerial and guests insisted that it was our duty to shinny up on the roof and fix it. (We took a couple of guest up with us. The ladder fell down. In the meantime, the rest of the party had forgotten all about the fight. We didn't get down off the roof until the following afternoon.)

Then there was the fight night when the video set broke down just as the principals were introduced and I tried to fix it up from a book. The fight went the limit, but I was a victim of a technical knockout, so to speak, before the opening gong. On another occasion the two principals were all out of focus (which I thought a very excellent idea, in view of their skill and ability). I refused to try to make adjustments myself and the guests insisted that I get an expert. I phoned a radio repair man but the wire was busy. It seems he was trying to get a repair man, too. I rushed over to his place by car, but by the time I got back with him the fight was over and the battlers were signing for their next bout.

When you go to a theater to see a fight you are fairly certain of getting to bed at a decent hour. You know you won't have to sit around until dawn until the other people decide they would like to go home. And in the theater telecast nobody is going to ask you to tune into a wrestling bout, switch to a Maugham playlet or locate one more ventriloquist using the same old dummy. The theater has another terrific advantage. Suppose the fight ends in the first or second round? The party is over. No feeling that you have an obligation to fiddle around and try to provide other entertainment. Or roll back the rugs and dance.

When all fights are telecast in movie houses the home whisky will last longer. Also the home furniture. We know one thing: the women of America are 100 per cent for the end of fight telecasts in the home. And all of them hope baseball and football wil go the same way. A living room is a living room, not an auditorium, stadium or barn, they seem to think, the narrow critters!

Heavy Equipment Begins Arriving At Tobyhanna Depot Site

Rochez Firm Prepares For Start Of Job

Tobyhanna — Heavy equipment of Rochez Construction Co. East Pittsburgh, Pa. began arriving on the 1,400-acre Signal Corps depot tract here yesterday preliminary to prosecution of a $2,899,579.50 initial contract on the $30,000,000 depot construction project.

Heavy equipment for clearing, grubbing of 390 acres, excavation of 2,961,000 cubic yards, installation of 45,000 feet of storm sewer piping from 15 to 48 inches in diameter and 10,000 cubic yards of rock excavation for storm drainage "will arrive hourly," a spokesman at the depot site said yesterday.

Offices have already been opened by the Rochez firm by George Nicholson, general superintendent for the construction company.

The offices here will, among other things, handle hiring of personnel for the project. Reports here yesterday indicated that Rochez Brothers will bring here a large force of supervisory personnel to press the first phase of the depot construction.

Under terms of the contract Rochez Brothers have 150 days to complete their portion of the giant project.

Tobyhanna Civic league has provided the contractor with a complete list of homes and other boarding facilities for construction workers.

Mr. Nicholson and other key personnel have already been located.

Union labor will be utilized throughout the entire project. Labor department scales for wages in all classifications were listed as part of the bid specifications.

An additional appropriation for the Tobyhanna depot of better than $3,000,000 contained in a Defense department appropriation bill was officially listed as part of the total funds assigned to the project by the office of Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-20th District) yesterday. The money is not for any additional facility on the depot reservation.

Woodrow Smith Imprisoned On Fraud Charge

Woodrow W. Smith, 34, who formerly reside at Minisink Hills, was held in Monroe county jail here last night in default of $5,000 bail.

Smith is charged with fraudulent conversion as the result of an incident which occurred in 1948.

At that time, he allegedly accepted a check for $2,000 from Kenneth Rinker, who now resides at 196 Stokes Ave., South Stroudsburg, as part payment for construction of a home at Rinker's Stokes Ave. property.

The defendant accepted the check ,but left the area after the rough cellar excavation was made, according to testimony presented to Justice of the Peace William N. Walton on Saturday.

Smith, who had been in California during the past two years, was arrested on his return to Monroe county by Pfc. Edward T. Beneski, of Stroudsburg State police.

When arraigned before Justice Walton on the charge, the defendant waived preliminary hearing.

Auto Club Goes On Record As Opposed To Senate Bill Increasing Truck Weights

The Board of Governors of the Monroe County Automobile club went on record unanimously as being against any change in truck weights as set forth in Senate bill 615, at their meeting at the Penn-Stroud hotel last night.

The board favored a resolution introduced in the Senate directing the Joint State Government commission to make a study of the matter of truck weights from every angle and report its findings to the 1953 sessions of the Legislature.

The bill before the Senate would permit increased weight limits of loads carried over those in effect under existing legislation.

The board approved the report of the committee appointed at the May meeting in the form of a letter to be sent to all club members with reference to changing of the name of the club to the Pocono Mountains Automobile club. Enclosed will be a postal card on which members are asked to vote "yes" or "no" and return same in order to get an idea of the sentiment as to a change.

There was considerable discussion of traffic jams on lower Main St., Stroudsburg, but no definite action was taken. Widening of the street and also the State bridge between the boroughs were highlights of the discussion.

The Fred Ladlee garage, Bushkill, was approved as an AAA service station with 24-hour service.

M. E. Leffler, club contact man, has planned to visit AAA service garages in the area in an effort to improve the service, especially during the heavy summer travel season.

The emergency road service the past month amounted to $150.25 covering 10 local and 23 foreign calls.

Thirty-eight new members were elected as follows:

Stroudsburg — Elizabeth Hammond, Raymond D. McConnell, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Rodewald, Elmer J. Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Ray L. Osborn, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Sanborn.

Margaret Truman Makes Big Hit While In France

Paris (AP)— Margaret Truman waved good-bye to Paris from a window of the Rome express yesterday and called to the platform crowd: "Thanks a million!"

"She has chic," smiled an elderly Frenchwoman who waved back.

Before the train was due to leave, the President's daughter was asked what she liked most during her week's stay in Paris. She smiled and said.

"Why, just everything." Then she added sternly: "But no interview, please," and turned away.

State Police Arrest Driver

Saylorsburg — A small chassis station wagon crashed into a large heavy model sedan at the intersection of Route 115 and 12 at 8:40 last night, tieing up traffic for several hours.

There were no injuries, although the little station wagon was demolished and the front end of the big sedan was extensively damaged.

Pfc. Anthony Bensch, of Brodheadsville State police, said Martin Rufus Griffin, 50, of New York, N. Y., the owner-operator of the midget car, was arrested for failing to yield the right-of-way.

He was arraigned on that charge and, when before Justice of the Peace George Kitchen, drew a second charge of having no operator's license. He paid fines on both counts.

Grandmothers Heading Home

Sante Fe, N. M., (AP)— Two eastern grandmothers snapped their suitcases shut and headed home last night, hoping they were leaving their publicity behind.

The two came in for a wave of publicity over the weekend when they discovered they were the victims of a hoax that brought them from New York to New Mexico.

Mrs. Mary Keihn, 55, of Clarks Summit, Pa., and Mrs. Frank Licari, 51, of East Rockaway, N. Y., planned to leave Albuquerque by plane late last night for Scranton, Pa.

"I hope we can just go home and not have to get written up in the newspapers any more," Mrs. Kleihn said.

The two found themselves stranded in Albuquerque Friday after accepting two one-way tickets. Mrs. Keihn had been advised by telephone that she had won a trip to Los Angeles from a radio program.

They have spent the last two days at a resort near here. The airlines is footing the bill.

Beshore Presents Awards To East Stroudsburg For Three-Year Safety Record

The East Stroudsburg Exchange club held its semi-monthly meeting last night at the East Stroudsburg Methodist church. President Henry Evans presided.

Program chairman for June, Howard DeNike, introduced the guest speaker, Ralph Beshore, member of the Governor's Highway Safety committee.

Speaking about safety programs, Mr. Beshore said that the organizations best suited to carry on an active safety program are the service clubs. He also praised the Exchange clubs of Pennsylvania for the fine safety programs which they carry on.

Stressing the chief causes of accidents as speed, drunken driving and carelessness, Mr. Beshore said that the establishment of training courses in High schools and colleges is doing a great deal toward teaching safety and proper driving methods.

He also revealed that the State of Pennsylvania won the grand prize from the National Safety council for having fewer accidents than any other state in the Union during the year 1950.

Closing his talk, Mr. Beshore said that the states that have proper instruction have 50 per cent fewer accidents than those which do not have such programs.

Following his address, Mr. Beshore presented two awards to Arthur Swink, East Stroudsburg chief of police, who represented the borough. The first award was from the National Safety council of Chicago for not having any traffic deaths within the city limits during the year 1950. The second award was a certificate of achievement in traffic safety for having no accidents or deaths within the last three years.

Election of officers for next year was also held. The results of the balloting were: Roger Dunning, president; W. Adolph Rake, vice president; Herbert Rupprecht, treasurer; James Burrows, secretary; Gordon Coy Jr., assistant secretary; Horace Westbrook, Paul Lloyd and Paul Dellaria, board of control.

Guests of the club included Harold Wiggins, president of the borough council; Roy Lloyd and Jack Wyckoff, councilmen; Arthur Swink, chief of police, and Clyde Schaller, East Stroudsburg school board member.

Selling Waves Hit Markets

By The Associated Press

Prices of stocks and commodities dropped lower yesterday in most of the world's markets during the first trading sessions since the Soviet proposed discussion of a cease-fire order in Korea.

The declines were sharp and trading was active in most exchanges as opening bells sounded, but before the day was out the excitement died and prices recovered a little from their low points.

Two selling waves hit prices on the New York Stock exchange with sledge hammer blows. Each time there was a comeback and at the close prices that had dipped as much as $5 were down a maximum of $3.

In the long run traders agreed with the businessmen and industrialists who have taken the view that regardless of what happens in Korea the huge defense program will roll on.

HST Objects To Telecasts Of Hearings

New York (AP)— A White House spokesman says President Truman believes television is essential to modern political life, but has serious misgivings about its use at hearings "because of the tendency to make Roman holidays of them."

The President's opinion was obtained by the New York Times as part of a reportorial canvass on the effects of TV on politics and government. The series is written by Jack Gould, radio and TV editor.

The White House statement to the Times said:

"In general it is pretty obvious that the President thinks highly of television. He insists on full use of it in all of his major speeches.

"The president has real misgivings, however, about the use of television at hearings because of the tendency to make Roman holidays of them."

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey told the Times that "politically, television is an X-ray. It should be a constructive advance in political campaigning." But the governor said that the use of television to broadcast testimony of witnesses is of doubtful legality.

Bank To Open At Tobyhanna In Mid-July

Tobyhanna — The First National Bank of Scranton is expected to open its branch bank in the Flaherty building here for business as of July 15.

The bank, through its executive officers, applied for permission from the U.S. Treasury department and comptroller of currency, Washington, D.C. for permission to establish a branch bank shortly after announcement was made by Rep. Francis E. Walter, (D-Easton) that a $30,000,000 Signal Corps depot employing some 5,000 persons would be located here.

First National won approval for their project. Their original announcement, dealing with their application, said that while the location of a 5,000-employe industry here was a factor in their decision to establish a branch bank, their main motivation involved service to the Pocono Mountains resort industry which has been growing markedly for the past several years.

Reports yesterday said that Clarence Butler, now affiliated with the Abington branch of First National Bank of Scranton at Clarks Summit, Pa., will come here to take charge of the Scranton institution's branch bank.

Opening of the branch in the Flaherty building, recently extensively remodeled, is timed to hit the peak employment period of contractors handling the first construction phase of the $30,000,000 depot.

Yosko Takes Issue With Fine On Tax

Harrisburg (AP)—Sen. Joseph J. Yosko (D-Northampton) said yesterday the issue in the tax-budget controversy is "simply a matter of economy against extravagance."

Yosko referred to a statement last week by an unidentified spokesman for Gov. John S. Fine's office that Sen. John M. Walker, Republican floor leader, is "performing magnificently" for the Democrats by his opposition to the income tax bill.

"Senator Walker," Yosko said, "is performing magnificently — not for the Democrats—but for the people of Pennsylvania," adding that "partisan politics is not involved."

"It might be well—in the best interests of the Commonwealth—for Governor Fine to take inventory of those surrounding him who have had him in hot water on every issue since he took the oath of chief executive. Then, after a careful inventory, replace those of his advisers who have misinformed him and thus restore harmony between the executive and legislative branches of the State government.

"These unwarranted attacks by payrollers upon members of the Senate who are using their best judgment in the interests of the people of Pennsylvania, will increase rather than diminish opposition to the unnecessary income tax as well as the procedure in the preparation of inflated billion dollar budgets."

Color Video Makes Debut

New York (AP)—Color television as devolped by the Columbia Broadcasting system had its formal introduction as a commercial broadcast service late yesterday. The hour-long program, which originated in New York, was a colorful occasion in the full sense of the word.

The pictures were also seen in Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington via network relay. They were up to the standards already set in the many demonstrations that have taken place since the war as a controversy raged over whether this system or that of the Radio Corp. of America be adopted by the Federal Communications commission.

The inaugural program had the cooperation of 16 sponsors, each of whose products was displayed in color. The show originated in a readapted black and white studio three miles or so from the downtown transmitter. Two cameras were used, with the regular black and white crew handling the telecast.

A host of CBS talent starting with Arthur Godfrey, who has become an enthusiast over color TV, included Ed Sullivan, Faye Emerson, Gary Moore, Sam Levenson, Isabel Bigley, Robert Alda, the New York City ballet, the Bil Baird marinettes and Archie Bleyer's orchestra.

The show was mainly a display of the various types of material available for color transmissions. It did include brief talks by Wayne Coy, chairman of the FCC which approved the CBS system after a long series of hearings and whose decision was upheld by the Supreme court in action started by RCA; William S. Paley, chairman of the board of CBS, and Frank Stanton, CBS president.

A special viewing post was set up in one of the CBS downtown studios, where newspapermen and others were guests. In addition a few experimenters, a number of dealers and others were able to tune in by means of converters attached to standard black and white sets or by specially assembled color receivers, one of which has just been advertised at $499.50. In the four other cities, similar viewing arrangements were made.

Chairman Coy, who with Paley and Stanton appeared early in the program, welcomed "color television as an exciting addition to the American way of life."

At a news conference before the program, Stanton said Columbia is pushing plans for manufacture and distribution of color sets, and dealers will have "all the color sets they can sell" by September.

He said the advent of color will give a much needed boost to TV sales and help distributors move swollen inventories.

The millions of sets now in the hands of the public will not be made obsolete by color, he said, and they can be adapted at little cost for reception of colorcasts in black and white. He said dealers are "just begging" for converters and adapters.

While the CBS announcement described the "premiere broadcast as a breathtaking spectacle," the pictures were comparable to the tints of color movies should they be seen on a screen as small as that of TV. For the most part the receivers at the viewing station had ten-inch tubes with enlarging lenses bringing up the image to approximately 12 inches.

Godfrey, in mc ing a section of the broadcast, was seen in all of his red hair, rudy complexion and freckles. The blonde radiance of Faye Emerson was visible in a medium low-necked sleeveless gown. She conducted that part of the telecast which comprised a display of paintings.

Beginning this week, CBS is to present two daily color programs, one at 10:30 A.M., a homemakers series, and the other at 3:30 p.m., a nature study. The former starts Wednesday and the other today.

Because the standards of the CBS color system are different than those for black and white, special equipment is necessary to receive the pictures. A black and white receiver requires an adapter to get the images in black and white, while to reproduce in color a converter is required. A motor driven color wheel makes the color image possible.

Almost simultaneously with the CBS program, a Dumont demonstration of color at the Passiac, N. J., plant contrasted the CBS color with the RCA system on separate receivers, the former picking up the CBS program and the latter using a closed circuit program.

Viewers See Colorcast On Ordinary Sets

New York, (AP) — You couldn't get the premier of commercial color television yesterday on an ordinary set without an adapter, as the Columbia Broadcasting system would be the first to admit.

But some home set owners did see it — without adapters — just the same.

In Philadelphia TV station WCAU got five calls from people who said they saw th show on ordinary sets. A number of such calls were received by CBS in New York.

"A freak," explained a CBS official.

"It happens," he added, "when a set is absolutely perfectly tuned. But this is very rare."

When it happens, he said, the set owner sees the color program in black and white, and sees four images simultaneously, one in each corner of the screen.

U. S. Should Explore All Peace Angles

By J. M. Roberts Jr.
Associated Press News Analyst

It is quite possible that Russia's latest statement regarding a cease-fire in Korea is designed purely and simply to open another series of conferences, like those just ended in Paris, for propaganda purposes.

It is also quite possible that, by an overcautious attitude, the State department is missing an opportunity to offset such a purpose—if it really is that—at its outset.

Jacob Malik, chief Soviet delegate to the United Nations, said Soviet peoples believed the fighting in Korea could be stopped. Discussions "between the belligerents" of an armistice providing for mutual withdrawal from the 38th parallel could be the first step.

If the Communists intend to pursue their usual course, the "first step" will produce no concrete second step, but will merely be followed by the unacceptable demands which the Communists have been making for months — cession of Formosa to Communist China, U. N. membership for the Peiping regime, and the like.

It is also noteworthy that, before making the cease-fire suggestion, Malik delivered a condensation of the Soviet propaganda line. The old "big lies" were repeated. They were capped by the new angle, developed particularly for the Paris conference, that, as though history had only begun two years ago, all the tension now is due to creation of the North Atlantic alliance.

The speech, except the last few paragraphs does suggest that propaganda, not peace, is the Russian objective.

Those last few paragraphs, however, omitted the usual Communist prerequisites for peace. No action was proposed except a meeting to discuss a cease-fire on the basis of a no man's land at the parallel.

United Nations officials were quick to do what the United States did not do. They jumped right in with appeals to get the talks going.

The United States cautiously took the attiude that it would not block anything. It asked for proof of good faith, for deeds, not words. The President and State department official emphasized that any settlement must be 'real," ending aggression and restoring security.

But whether it was a time for statements of aims, instead of welcoming explorations, was open to question.

At least for once, the Russians had been willing to forego this until negotiations were under way.

It is natural that U. S. officials should not wish to appear, later, as having been sucked in. But in the matter of ending a war, even if negotiations prove merely to have been for the record, wholeheartedness of effort would seem to outweigh the mere scoring of points in diplomatic fencing.

There are still imponderables in the Russian statement. Malik didn't define his term "belligerents." Certainly Russia's claim that she is not one would seem to rule her out of the proposed conference. Communist China, although operating fairly openly, still refers to her "volunteers." Since the "volunteers" have taken pretty much of a licking, Peiping might take the position that the term covers only the Allies on one side and North Korea on the other. This would indicate an unexpected Communist willingness to take their losses and get out of their ill-considered attempt to grab South Korea while nobody (they thought) was looking. But with the Communists, anything is possible.

The United States, of course, is being embarrassed by several considerations.

To get the most brutal one over with first, there is the danger that the end of fighting might also be the end of popular support of the rearmament program. The necessity for it was agreed upon, even before Korea by nearly everyone in responsible position. But the public is not very enthusiastic.

There is a nicety of maneuver demanded on this point. An over-enthusiastic acceptance of peace in Korea as a great solution, rather than the mere ending of a dangerous incident, might be disastrous.

Then there is the attitude of South Korea, which took seriously the statement of U. N. intentions to unite the country. Yet the U. S. and her Allies would not in any case be in a mood to fight just to turn a unified Korea over to the Syngman Rhee regime. Rhee has taken a seat very close to Chiang Kai-shek in many estimations.

All of these things are troublesome. The possibility that Russia would really let negotiations get to the point of actual peace seems remote.

But the United States can hardly afford to get into the state of mind of the old-time western prospector who, disillusioned by years of finding only pyrites, hesitated to investigate a new vein.

Haifa Refinery May Be Struck

Haifa, Israel, (AP) — Six hundred workers at the Haifa refineries may strike this week while the Iranian oil crisis is still on, it was learned yesterday.

Ex-Pen Pal Of Homeyer Takes Stand

Tunkhannock (AP) — Tall, red-haired Maggie Woodall of South Bend, Ind., told a Wyoming county jury yesterday that she was another of the many women in the life of Charles E. Homeyer who is being tried for murder.

Following a "pen pal" correspondence, she said, she and the 53-year-old former Factoryville, Pa., man lived together in a motel at Fontana, Calif., for two weeks in September 1950. He told her, she said, that his wife had died two years before.

At the end of two weeks she said she decided to leave. He bought her a ticket home and gave her $25 and a new suitcase. She understood, she swore, that he was to pick her up later at South Bend and take her to New York but she never saw him again. Later she got a card saying Homeyer had married a girl in Florida—a "girl he could buy slacks to fit".

Mrs. Virgil Weitzel, who operated the motel at Fontana, swore that after the Woodall woman left, Homeyer told her he was "glad to get rid of her because she had no money".

Mrs. Weitzel also testified that Homeyer was at her place on April 8, 1950, only ten days after the mysterious death of Anna Snellman Homeyer, with a women she identified as Nancy Parker and that Homeyer registered them as man and wife.

Homeyer is accused by the State of having murdered Anna, with whom he had been living at Factoryville, dismembering her body and burying the skull and a thigh bone in concrete in the cellar there. The State charges he did that in an effort to get Anna's money and that he already had a date to meet Nancy Parker before his wife Anna met her death.

Homeyer has claimed that his wife died from an overdose of sleeping pills and he became panicky when he found her, and then cut up the body in the bath tub.

Yesterday Dr. Alexander Gettler, world renowned toxicologist, who said he has examined over 90,000 human bodies for traces of poison, told of tests he made on the recovered pelvis of Mrs. Anna Homeyer. He said he tested for not only barbiturates but also every other kind of poison and found absolutely nothing.

At the time of the American Revolution, most United States wheat was grown in Vermont.

Court Grants Continuance Of Marvin Trial

Allentown (AP) — First degree murder charges were continued indefinitely yesterday against Stanley Marvin Jr., 20, in connection with the fatal beating of an Army sergeant.

District Attorney Kenneth H. Koch explained the action by saying the acquittal of Jack L. Cernobyl, 17, on similar charges last week made trial of Marvin "futile with the present panel of jurors."

Cernobyl and Marvin were accused with slaying Sgt. Ramond S. Noll last March 24.

Judge James F. Henninger, granting the motion, said Koch's action "makes it possible to bring Marvin to trial anytime the district attorney might find other evidence available."

The judge added: "And it is conceivable that such evidence might become available."

Cernobyl was in court when Koch made his motion. Both youths walked out of the court together after the granting of the motion.

Slayer Given Life Sentence

York (AP)—Judge Walter I. Anderson yesterday sentenced Robert Corbin, 32, convicted of first-degree murder in the slaying of a 62-year-old widow, to life imprisonment.

At the same time he sentenced Harold Albright, 28, convicted of second degree murder in the same case, to 10 to 20 years in the Eastern State penitentiary.

Judge Anderson also joined with Judge Ray P. Sherwood in an opinion finding Genevieve Heistand, 23, guilty of first degree murder with a recommendation of life imprisonment. She had pleaded guilty and had testified against the two men.

The trio was charged with the April 19, 1950 robbery-slaying of Mrs. Anna R. Bittle. The York widow's body was found in Codorus creek in downtown York.

Judge Anderson said he probably would pass formal sentence on the woman Wednesday.

Fourth Of July Sees America's Cradle Of Liberty Building Into Finer Shrine

By John Sembower
(Central Press Correspondent)

Philadelphia, Pa.—Observance of July Fourth has unusual significance this year at the shrine to which all Americans turn on Independence Day—old Independence Hall and its prized Liberty Bell.

This is not only because it is the 175th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence; not even because the annual presidential proclamation is in particularly strong terms describing the Declaration as giving "hope to the oppressed in other lands," and as never having been more seriously threatened than now.

Independence Hall tower.

Much of the air of special anticipation in this city's "Old Town" springs from the fact that at long last definite progress is being made to preserve and develop the nation's shrine of its independence. Independence Hall now is the center of the newest national park, created last Jan. 2 when Philadelphia turned it over to the federal government.

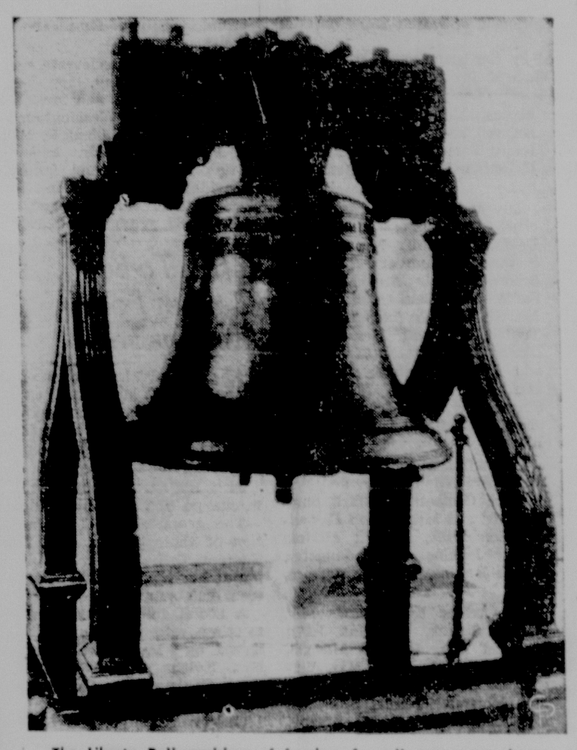

Work already has begun on a multi-million dollar Independence National Historical Park, which is to be a unique combined city-state-federal project. The initial objective calls for putting Independence Hall back into tip-top shape.

This may not be easy, because the old Pennsylvania Statehouse, where the Continental Congress proclaimed the nation's freedom in 1776, was then already a venerable structure, having been built between 1732 and 1741 according to plans drawn by the famous lawyer, Andrew Hamilton.

Warren McCullough, curator of the building, has made a public appeal for "the right kind of wood" to be used in renovating the main staircase and the rail around the tower above the clock. Needed are about 300 feet of seasoned, long-leaf, Georgia yellow pine, 13 inches wide and an inch and a quarter thick, and that kind of wood today is hard to get.

For many years, visitors seeking the famous structure on Chestnut street have stumbled upon it virtually by surprise, much dwarfed by massive modern buildings to the east, south, and west. The plan, therefore, is to open a landscaped mall to the north toward the Delaware river.

This is in line with Philadelphia's ancient master plan, fathered by William Penn himself. The Statehouse yard of 1729, now known as Independence Square, was to stand apart, and the old city was to reflect a spaciousness which somehow was lost in the modern congestion.

The Liberty Bell—emblem of freedom for all men everywhere.

Although they naturally are even more lost than Independence Hall in the general clutter today, many of the country's most historical buildings are near neighbors and figure prominently in the plan for the shrine.

Associated with Independence Hall is Carpenters Hall, owned by the Company of Master Carpenters, and used as the meeting place of the First Continental Congress. Franklin's home and grave are nearby. So is the Betsy Ross flag-house, the site of the house where Jefferson penned the Declaration, and the house where General Washington resided.

All these are to be renovated in a reincarnation of colonial environment which may rival the restoration of Williamsburg, Va. Lawyers already are examining the titles of every parcel of property for blocks around to uncover other possible historical angles.

That the nation should just be getting around to establishment of such a memorial is no less remarkable in the opinion of local historians than the way the Declaration itself was without a home for 101 years. That document, one of the world's most cherished writings, was severely damaged as it sought shelter in 10 cities before finally winding up in the Library of Congress where it now reposes in a special case.

It is not expected that the Declaration ever will be returned here, but the old Liberty Bell is on the scene and will have an honored spot. Made in England by Thomas Lister, it was twice recast because of brittleness, and finally was hung in April, 1753.

The legend is that the bell took its name on July 4, 1776, when the old bell ringer and his grandson refrained from striking it at vespers, in deference to the Congress which was continuing unusually long in a special session on a sultry summer's day.

Finally, Thomas Jefferson having finished reading his draft of the Declaration of Independence and its having been adopted virtually unchanged and with only three negative votes, the doors of the meeting room were flung open with shouts of, "Ring the bell for freedom!"

The lad rushed up the narrow steps to the belfry and soon its peals aroused the citizenry, just sitting down to supper, and a crowd quickly gathered to begin the celebration.

Although the bell rang lustily that evening, it cracked on July 8, 1835, while tolling the knell for Chief Justice John Marshall of the United States Supreme Court, "the Father of the Constitution."

The Supreme Court first sat in a building built in 1791 adjacent to Independence Hall, and it also was a part of the little neighborhood which witnessed more of the events marking the beginning of the United States than any other, and all of which now will be included in the newest national park.

COOL OUTSIDE

with the AUTOMATIC Electric WATER HEATER

Heavy insulation keeps all the heat inside leaving the outside cool to the touch. It's safe and it's clean. That's why more than 5,000 MECO customers changed to electric water heaters from other types last year.

IT'S SAFE It's Electric

There's nothing to worry about when you have an electric automatic water heater. It holds water temperature at a constant level—never too hot nor too cold. There is never any danger of burns because all heat is retained inside by heavy insulation on top and bottom as well as sides. It is as safe as an electric light; as dependable as an electric clock. Your appliance dealer can install any model selected.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Everybody sort of perked up their drooping feathers and faced into the breeze with a little more spirit yesterday. Even the mosquito bites which plagued you so during the heat wave seemed a little less annoying.

Might even get up enough enthusiasm to do a little work today, if the weather holds, though I doubt if I'll be as ambitious as Marjorie Hamblin who using her Christmas lights extension was transplanting flowers by electric light last night.

Did wonder briefly whether I could work the same trick picking the sour cherries that are ripening so fast—but I decided that would be a dirty trick on the birds who are certainly having a cherry festival of their own.

Something very aesthetically pleasing about picking cherries. Clusters pretty enough to wear on a hat, green leaves, blue sky, and the birds in there scolding away and taking bites out of the ripest ones.

Nothing pleasing however about the scratches, dirt, and general debility that follows a day in the cherry tree, but if somebody has strength enough to roll the rolling pin, maybe we'll have a cherry pie.

Practice Tonight

The final practice for the floral tribute to Cherry Valley Grange on June 28 will be held at the Hamilton Grange tonight at 8 o'clock.

Airport Buys Land To Permit Longer Runway

40-Acre Plot Obtained From Coal Company

Mount Pocono Airport Authority has completed negotiations for additional lands which will permit extension of a runway to about 6,000 feet, R. LeRoy Dengler, president of the authority, announced yesterday.

Mr. Dengler said a total of 40 acres has been acquired from the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Co. Joined directly to the existing airport property, the tract is 700 feet wide.

It ranges from the end of the existing grass runway to the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad Co. right-of-way.

A considerable portion of the new airport tract is heavily timbered. A cursory check indicates that the authority will be able to realize a substantial sum from sale of this timber when expansion of the airport gets under way.

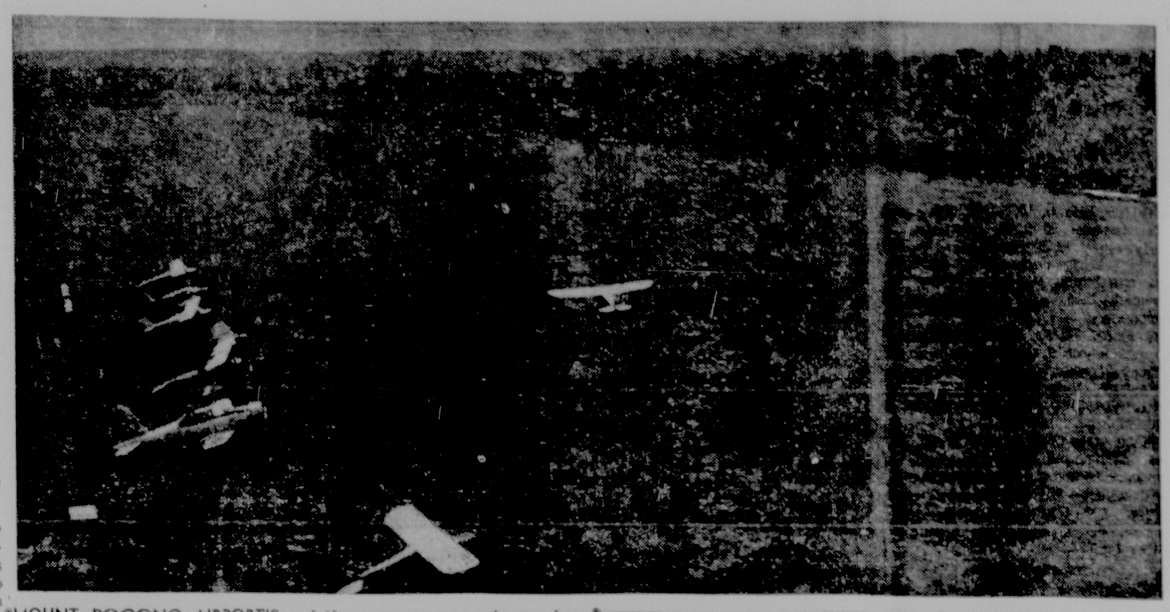

Survey and engineer work is currently being rushed on the initial project to expand the airport. Michael Baker, Inc., Rochester, Pa. engineers, are preparing this project which involves extension of an existing grass runway from 3,200 feet to 4,000 feet.

This extension will meet Civil Aeronautics Authority requirements for plans which All American Aviation proposes to use for its passenger-mail service at Mount Pocono Airport.

Authority members not only put up the cash for purchase of the additional 40 acres, but are supplying the cash for the initial project. Pennsylvania's Bureau of Aeronautics and the CAA will be asked to supply matching funds . . . .the State to match all local funds and the Federal government the total of the State and local funds.

In order to avoid delays, the extension of the grass runway will be blacktop instead of grass, eliminating the waiting period for landing turf to develop.

Negotiations with Lehigh Coal & Navigation Co. for the 40-acre tract have been under way for the past few months. The acquisition will enable expansion of the mountain landing field to a point where it will be able to handle major airliners now in use.

MOUNT POCONO AIRPORT'S existing grass runway, shown here with a partial group of 22 planes which landed there recently will be extended ultimately to a depth of over 6,000 feet. A 40-acre land purchase by the Airport Authority covers land at the extreme end of the runway.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key-number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Her first party dress

Compare the cost of your telephone service with the cost of other things, and you'll agree that your telephone service is a bargain.

This young girl's first party dress, for example, will cost more than twice as much as her mother's first party dress. But don't blame the people who make or sell dresses. Blame the dollar! It buys less than half as much today as it bought in her mother's day.

The dollar buys less for us, too.

The cost of supplies and equipment used in the telephone business is going up and up, just like the cost of supplies and equipment for other businesses.

In spite of this, we have been able to provide good, low-cost telephone service that continues to grow in value.

Even if it should cost more, your telephone service, in comparison with other things, would still be a big, big bargain.

Pocono A.C. Meets Washington Under Lights Tonight

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Two forfeits featured the baseball action in which fans of Monroe County and nearby Northampton County have an interest on Sunday. Roseto was forced to forfeit to East Bangor, while Pocono Lake failed to have enough players on hand to see action against Lake Harmony on the Tobyhanna Township High school field. The Pocono Lake forfeit was the second of the present campaign for that team, but Roseto's forfeit came as a surprise to all concerned.

The Pocono Lake action may mean that the Pocono Mountain League will operate as a nine-team unit for the remainder of the campaign, although no official action has been taken at the present time. Pocono Lake was forced to forfeit to Saylorsburg earlier in the season and in one game Reeders loaned the Pocono Lake contingent several players in order that the contest might be played.

Although at least one official of the league fears for the future of the Pocono Lake team, the loop is determined to do everything in its power to correct the situation and keep Pocono Lake in the league for the balance of the season. However, virtually everyone is agreed that the situation is black at the present time and it will take some pretty quick action to correct the situation that exists.

The Roseto-East Bangor forfeit case certainly came up for plenty of discussion at last night's Blue Mountain League meeting, at Tatamy. Although at the time of this writing it was too early to talk much about the affair, as the meeting hadn't even started, I firmly believe that plenty more will be heard about this case before time takes the bitter taste of it away from the baseball fans who follow these teams almost daily.

George Condrick, pitcher with the Stroudsburg Poconos in 1948 and 1949, recently hurled Winston-Salem, of the class "B" Carolina League, to a 1-0 victory over Danville, as the Cardinal farmhands produced a single run in the bottom of the ninth to bring home the bacon. Condrick, who lost a 2-0 decision to Raleigh, N. C., in 15 innings, allowed only three singles in gaining his most recent victory, during which time he fanned four batters and didn't allow a single free ticket to first base.

J. C. Dunn, center fielder for Lebanon, of the North Atlantic league in 1949, is currently holding down right field for Winston-Salem. Dunn led the North Atlantic league in hitting during his one year of activity in the circuit. John Schoonover and Clint Besecker, manager and general manager of Pocono A.C. respectively, represented the Monroe county team at the meeting of the Blue Mountain league last night.

The lights, which we all thought would be off until football season, go on tonight at Gordon Giffels field for the first time since the professional Stroudsburg Poconos called it quits last season. Pocono A.C., with the help of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce and one-or-more service clubs, will play its initial night game of the campaign tonight, with Washington, N.J. providing the opposition in the exhibition contest.

Washington, featuring one of its best teams in recent years, is currently leading the Tri-County league by one full game and should provide a couple of hours of thrills for those attending tonight's encounter. Night baseball will be featured in this area only as long as the fans show that they want it continued. This means that everyone interested in baseball will have to get out and support the club under the lights, or the local Blue Mountain league contingent will revert to twilight battles.

Fellows between th ages of 16 and 23 have the privilege of attending the baseball school being staged at Gordon Giffels field on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. As long as the individual falls in the required age limit, he is invited to make an impression on the school faculty, regardless of race, creed or color. Each boy must have his own glove and shoes and the Phillies would like each individual to be uniformed also. However, uniforms are not absolutely necessary and overalls or old clothes of any type will do the trick as long as they are on a baseball player.

A baseball school of this type is one of those chances that come once in a lifetime to most kids and the fellow with any sort of ability that allows a chance of this type to escape his grasp needs his head examined. Many of the greatest major league stars in the game today were found in a diamond school of the type that opens in Stroudsburg on Thursday and runs through Saturday.

Aid For Rabbits

Springfield, Ill. (AP) — Illinois legislators have been asked to put the state conservation department into the rabbit-breeding business. The Beagle club association says the Illinois rabbit population is way down.

Blue Mountain League Heads Arrange Rain-Date Schedule

Tatamy—A schedule for rained out and postponed ball games was arranged here last night for the Blue Mountain Baseball league as representatives of every team in the circuit met at the Tatamy Fire hall with Vice President Woodrow Jones in charge.

The schedule of postponed games, as announced at the meeting, starts with a Tatamy at Roseto meeting booked for tonight, and carries through the next two weeks.

Other dates fixed: Thursday (June 28)—Johnsonville at East Bangor; Portland at West Bangor. June 29—Stockertown at Stroudsburg (8:30 p. m. under arc light). July 5—East Bangor at Portland.

Anthony Cortez, president of the league's umpires association, attended the meeting and advised the group that "all umpires will be advised to be patient" after making decisions.

In an item of business pertaining to this same subject, the league endorsed Sunday's forfeit by Roseto to East Bangor.

Deadline for signing of new players was set at June 30 for all teams in the circuit. An all-star game in mid-July with an aggregation from the Tri-County league was also discussed.

Oscar Charleston

Stars, Giants Tangle At Bangor Park

Bangor — Philadelphia Stars, members of the Negro American League will make their first appearance here at Memorial Park tonight when they meet the Elite Giants at 8:15 p.m.

The Philadelphia Stars were organized in 1932 by the late Ed. Bolden, former manager and part owner of the nationally famous Hilldale team, and had been a member of the Negro National League for sixteen years prior to their entry in the N. A. L. This is their third season in the N. A. L. and currently are recognized as one of the leading pennant contenders.

Great Figure

The Stars are managed by one of the greatest Negro players of all time, Oscar Charleston, who is a legendary figure in baseball. Charleston, at the age of 16, broke into baseball with the twenty-fourth infantry in World War I. After leaving the service he immediately joined the powerful ABC's of Indianapolis and through his brilliant playing with such standout teams as Chicago American Giants, Lincoln Stars of New York, Hilldale, Homestead Grays, Harrisburg Giants, etc., became known as the hardest hitting player of his time. After 18 years of playing, Charleston's knowledge enabled him to manage such teams as the Pittsburgh Crawfords, Toledo and Harrisburg. He is at present in this fourth season at the helm of the Philadelphia Stars.

The Elite Giants are one of Negro baseball's better teams. They are members of the Negro American League and were champions of the circuit in 1949. They are determined to make a bid to regain the title this year.

The Elites, this year, show signs of being one of the league's power teams with such sluggers as Jimmie Zapp, Henry Kimbro, "Doc" Dennis, Frank Russell and two youngsters, 22 year old Fleming Reed and 20 year old Syd Bunche. The pitching staff is headed by two lefties Kelley Searoy and Ed Derricks, and right handers Al Wilmore Sylvester Rodgers and "Hog" Thompson. Johnny Hayes, veteran backstop, and Chubby Marshall, a lad who worked out at the Dodgers' Vero Beach camp this spring will handle the catching chores.

Bronxville Pro Wins At Scranton

Scranton (AP) — Art Wall Jr., assistant pro at the Siwanoy Country club, Bronxville, N. Y., yesterday carded a three under par 35-34—69 to win the fifth annual Anthracite Open Golf tournament.

Walter Hall Jr., of Harrisburg, Pa., and Johnny Moyer, of Orwigsburg, Pa., tied for second place with a 71. Hall had a 36-35 and Moyer a 35-36.

Stanley Starkey, amateur champion at the Elmhurst Country club where the tournament was held, posted a 37-36—73 for fourth place.

Johnny Bishop, Shamokin, Pa., pro, winner of the first tournament placed fifth with a 37-37—74.

Yanks 4, Dodgers 3

New York (AP) — The largest exhibition game crowd in history—71,289 paid—saw the American league defending champion New York Yankees defeat the National league leading Brooklyn Dodgers 4-3, after 10 exciting and confusing innings last night.

Three Dodger errors contributed heavily to Yank scoring, ruining fine pitching by Johnny Schmitz and hard-hitting by Roy Campanella.

Bosox Send Hitless Dropo To San Diego

Boston (AP) — Big Walt Dropo, Red Sox first baseman who was the 1950 American league rookie of the year, was optioned to San Diego of the Pacific coast league yesterday because of weak hitting.

The 220-pound former all-round athlete at the University of Connecticut has been unable this spring to attain the batting mark he hung up last season when he knocked in 144 runs to tie teammate Vern Stephens for the league leadership in that department.

Under Par

Walt's hitting average to date is .251. Last year he wound up with .322.

The departure of Dropo, who will be on 24-hour recall, cuts the Sox roster down to the 25 player limit. It was necessitated by the acquisition last night of outfielders Carl Olson and Charley Maxwell and pitcher Leo Kiely from the Louisville farm team of the American association.

The Sox sent outfielder Tom Wright and infielder Fred Hatfield to Louisville—also on 24-hour recall.

Not Louissville

The report was current yesterday that Dropo refused to go back to Louisville. It was from Louisville that the husky first-sacker came last May when first baseman Billy Goodman broke an ankle.

Walt's hitting was so good that Billy never got his first base job back all year.

This season, Dropo started at first and Goodman in rightfield. When Walt's hitting tailed off, manager Steve O'Neill benched him and put Goodman back on the initial bag.

Phils Beat Athletics, 5-1

Philadelphia (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies defeated the Philadelphia Athletics 5-1, last night as southpaw Kenny Johnson hurled two hit ball against the American Leaguers for seven and two-thirds innings before being lifted when he walked four batters with two out to force in a tally.

Milo Candini replaced him and fanned Gus Zernial, the Athletics home run king with the bags loaded to retire the side.

The Phils got two unearned runs in the sixth off starter Joe Coleman when second baseman Lou Klein tossed Bill Nicholson's double play grounder into left field with one out after successive hits by Eddie Waitkus and Richie Ashburn.

This fielding miscue, a two base error, let both Waitkus and Ashburn tally.

Ralph Caballero's single, his theft of second, and Del Wilber's hit led to another Phils run in the seventh while Willie Jones' safety, Gran Hamner's triple and a wild pitch accounted for a pair of eighth inning counters.

Giants Even Series

Boston (AP) — The New York Giants squared a two game exhibition schedule with the Red Sox at one victory each last night when they whipped the Bostonians 5-4. Proceeds of the contest, witnessed by 25,237 fans, were scheduled to aid disabled veterans. Boston won 5-3 in New York June 11.

The Sox were held scoreless in all save the sixth and ninth innings by southpaw Monte Kennedy and rookie righthander Frank Hardy.

Detroit U. Golfer Heads College Field

Columbus, O. (AP) — A 32-year-old father of three children, a University of Detroit senior, carved out a five-under-par 67 to take the qualifying lead in the 1951 intercollegiate golf championships yesterday.

Samuel Kocsis, who hasn't played much golf in the last two years, blistered the long Scarlet course at Ohio State University with a brilliant 33-34—67. Par is 36-36—72.

With two-thirds of the field in, the 145-pound senior sported a two-stroke margin over his nearest challenger. His 67 was a course record for tournament play, topping a 68 by Ohio State Howard Baker in 1945.

Famous Brother

Kocsis is a brother of Chuck Kocsis of the University of Michigan, who won the 1936 NCAA golf crown. He also has five other brothers known for their golf prowess. One of them, Emerick, is a Detroit pro.

Don January of North Texas State College, the 1950 NCAA team champions, shot a 35-34—69.

Tom Nieporte of Cincinnati, 22-year-old Ohio State University junior, fired a 36-34—70 over the 6,915-yard rolling course. Seymour Black of UCLA matched that total with 37-33—70.

No Club Member

Kocsis, who qualified for the National Publinks tourney a week or so ago, said he practiced intensively for the Intercollegiate. He plays most of his golf at Red Run Country club in Detroit but doesn't belong to any one club.

But, despite Kocsis' lead, Nieporte of Ohio State still ranked up there as a prime favorite. The smooth-swinging Ohioan was two-strokes under par and he's playing his home course, where he's generally extremely tough.

Several Threats

And, other collegians, ranked as threats for the college title, showed they had the strokes. Bob McCall of Colgate, rated before the tournament as the man to beat, carded a 35-37—72, even par, and Don Finsterwald of Ohio University, a Walker Cup player, turned in a 37-36—73.

Gene Coulter of Purdue also hit par, a 35-37—72 while Anthony Novitsky, a Detroit colleague of Kocsis, turned in a 36-35—71.

Lew Brown of the University of North Carolina was another lad who kept to even par for the route, 38-34—72, on the basis of a strong finish.

Foot Injury Bothers Kiner

Pittsburgh (AP) — Outfielder Ralph Kiner of the Pittsburgh Pirates was taken to Presbyterian hospital last night for an X-ray examination of his left instep.

Kiner left Forbes Field after playing only one inning of an exhibition between the Pirates and the American League's Cleveland Indians.

The Pirate home run slugger suffered the foot injury a month ago while sliding back to second base in a game with the Chicago Cubs at Chicago. He said that it did not bother him while he was playing first base but since he returned to his left field post a few days ago it has given him trouble.

Kiner started the season at first base when General Manager Branch Rickey tried to strengthen the Pirates. The experiment ended last week. Kiner, who either has tied or led the major leagues in home runs the past four seasons, has hit 17 homers this year.

Twenty Entered In Channel Swim

London (AP) — Britons, trying to channel the midsummer Channel madness into one big splash, have lined up a field of 20 hopefuls for a mass race across the English Channel.

The London Daily Mail, sponsoring the Channel swim, said today the competitors were chosen from 155 entrants in 23 countries. Last year there were nine swimmers in the race.

The Channel derby is set for Aug. 13 from Cap Griz Nez, France to the British Channel coast. Prizes total 7,000 pounds ($79,000) in cash, with the first man and first woman across to get 1,000 pounds (2,800) each. Britain has five entries, France, three; Argentina, Egypt and Sweden, two each, and the U.S., Canada, Greece, Holland, Denmark and Peru, one each. The American entry is Roy Parks Sutter, 37, of Fort Worth, Tex.

Brooklyn Threatens To End National League Race Next Month If Rivals Don't Show Power

New York, (AP)—The time has come to stop Brooklyn—or else. That is the feeling in the New York Giants' camp and around the rest of the National league.

Even with Sunday's double loss at Pittsburgh, the Dodgers' approach the all-star game with a six-game lead. If the Giants can't cut it in their six games with Brooklyn during the next ten days the Dodgers may be gone forever.

The American league, however, seems assured of a solid race through the summer. Chicago's lead melted to one game on an 8-8 eastern swing but now they dig in at home for a long stand. For the next two weeks they'll be playing mostly St. Louis and Detroit.

If the Dodgers continue to belt the Giants around at their five-one early season pace, the National race can be practically finished by July 8. Closest to the second place Giants is St. Louis. And the Cardinals are eight games behind Brooklyn. Furthermore, the Cards have been able to beat the Dodgers only twice in 10 starts.

Big Crowd

With Preacher Roe (10-6) for the Brooks and Sal Maglie (11-3) for the Giants, the Polo Grounds management expects a sellout at the Polo Grounds tonight. They play again Wednesday and Thursday. After an interlude to take on the Braves and Phils, it will be the Giants and Dodgers again at Brooklyn for two July 4 and one the next night. Both the Giants and Dodgers swept through the west on their second trip at a 9-4 clip.

The White Sox weren't able to maintain their amazing road pace of the first eastern swing on the second time around. But they had a good trip, playing .500 on the road in 16 games, splitting four at Yankee Stadium. If they had been able to get out of Boston with an even break, they would have taken home most of the lead they brought east.

The schedule gives the White Sox an edge. While they play their western rivals, the Yanks and Red Sox meet seven times. Anything like an even break between the second and third place clubs would give Chicago an opportunity to pull away.

Before they come into Yankee Stadium for a day-night doubleheader Friday, Boston has two games at Fenway with Red hot Philadelphia. It will be Maury McDermott (4-4) for the Sox against Bob Hooper (2-5) for the A's tonight.

The Yanks will be in Washington for three, starting with Ed Lopat (10-2) against Connie Marrero (6-4) on tonight's all-night program.

Cleveland and Detroit, fourth and fifth in the standings, also meet eight times before the all-star break.

New Management

Oil City (AP) — The Oil City Athletics of the Class C Middle Atlantic Baseball league are under new management, a syndicate composed of four men who wish to remain anonymous.

Oil City folded last year because of poor attendance although its team won the league championship.

Bues Overtake Tribe

Pittsburgh (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates came from behind last night to defeat the Cleveland Indians 5-2 in an exhibition game witnessed by 9,517 fans.

Vernon Law, who has been recuperating from a sore arm, scattered eight Cleveland hits. Bob Chakales, who started on the mound for the American leaguers, was hit on the left elbow by a pitched ball in the third and had to retire.

Kulp's And Union Printers Run Wild

Kulp's Foundry and the Union Printers set a fast pace in their respective Monroe County Softball league contests last night, Kulp's copping their tilt with the Eagles, 13-4, and the printers peppering away at Line Material until they had a 21-3 conquest.

The printers fashioned their victory at the East Stroudsburg Junior High field from a wealth of one-base hits and a few well-spaced doubles.

Their batting superiority was apparent throughout, and the printers manufactured their hits with systematic regularity.

Capture Lead

Kulp's Foundry warmed up more gradually in their win over the Eagles at the playground. The first frame went scoreless and the Eagles pushed one across at the bottom of the second before Kulp's took the lead 2-1 with a brace of counters at the top of the third.

Playing to their advantage, and determined to hold it, the foundrymen went but after five in the fourth, and then repeated this performance again in the fifth.

Meantime, the Eagles hit the scoring column with lone tallies in their half of both of those innings to make the score read Kulp's 12, Eagles three.

Late Action

Both clubs added one run to their respective totals in the late innings, the foundrymen scoring first at the top of the sixth and the Eagles coming through with the last run of the night at the bottom of the seventh.

In tonight's league games, Patterson-Kelley will pair off against Tucker's Chevrolet at the Junior High field, and IAM will meet Worthington Mower at the playground.

Lucki To Hurl For Stroudsburg

Pocono A.C. will see action in its first game under the lights since the organization was formed, when Manager Johnny Schoonover's charges play host to Washington, N.J. tonight, at Gordon Giffels field, at 8:30. The lights will be turned on at the local field for the first time since last football season.

The Pocono A.C. contingent is currently in a tie for first place in the Blue Mountain league with Roseto, while Washington, featuring one of its strongest teams in history, is leading the fast Tri-County league by a full game at the present time.

Washington will bring a club loaded with stars, such as Jake Milne, former Lafayette outfielder; George Pelka, catcher and captain of the Manhattan College baseball team; Andy George, 19-year-old pitcher who has drawn the attention of Henry "Hank" Greenberg and the Cleveland Indians. George has won five games thus far this season.

Veterans

The veterans Jack George and Gus Kobbolski, pitcher and catcher respectively, will be on hand, as will Bill Hughes, first base; Jim Miller, third base; Tom Diebro, shortstop; Art Kendrich, third base; Ken Riley, center field; and Henry Beltman, right field.

Riley, manager of the club, led the circuit in batting last year, while Beltman was the Tri-County league's top home run hitter during the 1950 campaign.

Schoonover announced last night that Chet Lucki, currently sporting five victories, will do the hurling for Pocono A.C., while the remainder of the lineup will be the same as the one that faced Johnsonville on Sunday.

John Drew will do the catching, Danny Eppley, first base; Dewey Martling, second base; Jim Werkheiser, shortstop, and Tom "Elmer" Bonser, third base. Doug Schoonover will be in left, with either Alden "Red" Fetherman or Don Sweda in center, while Bob Shick operates out in right field.

Pocono A.C. plans several other outstanding exhibition games under the lights this season, providing the fans of this area show that they want this type of baseball. Tonight's attendance will go a long way in determining the future of night baseball in this area.

12-Year-Olds Lead Mibs Tournament

Asbury Park, N. J., June 25 (AP)—Clifford Roberson of Roanoke, W Va., and Russell Gwaltney of Salem, Pa., both 12 years old, led the field of 58 yesterday at the end of the first round in the National Marbles tournament.

Both youngsters turned in 17 wins against one loss and jumped well ahead of the competition in their respective leagues.

The 58 entrants are divided into six leagues. League play will continue through Thursday. Then on Friday the league winners will meet in the finals.

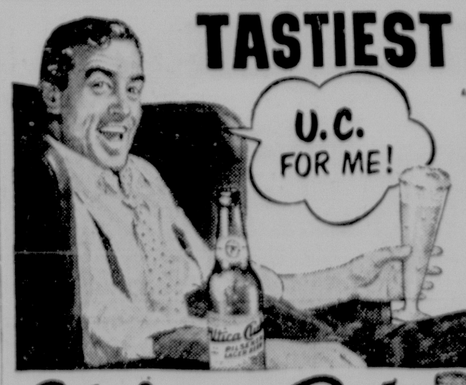

Two other boys got through the first round with only one setback. They were Robert Kupchak of Scranton, Pa., who competed last year, and Jack Austin of Huntington, W. Va. They both won 15 and lost one.

DeMarco Stops King

Philadelphia (AP) — Paddy DeMarco, 137, Brooklyn, N.Y., was awarded a ten-round unanimous decision over Arthur King, 136, Philadelphia, in the feature event of an outdoor card at Toppi stadium last night.

Williams Moves Into Select Group In American League

Chicago, (AP)—Boston's big Ted Williams hit at a .500 clip last week and took a place among the American league batting leaders, a clique from which he had been noticeably missing.

Through games of Sunday, Williams got 15 hits in 30 trips to the plate. These included six doubles and a home run. He drove in nine runs and scored ten. His .332 for the season was good for fifth place.

Ted Williams

The week saw Ferris Fain of the Athletics return to the top spot of the first ten hitters, cutting Orestes Minoso's reign to a single week.

Fain's average was .358, two percentage points better than the White Sox outfielder's .356.

Three other players joined the top ten with Williams. They are Gil Coan of Washington, Roberto Avila of Cleveland and George Kell of Detroit, who replaced Ray Coleman of St. Louis, Dick Kryhoski of Detroit, Luke Easter of Cleveland and Gil McDougald of New York.

Leaders

Then ten leaders, after Fain and Minoso, are Nelson Fox, Chicago, .355; Dom DiMaggio, Boston, .341; Williams, .332; Vern Stephens, Boston, .326; Jim Busby, Chicago, .319; Coan, .318; Avila, .317, and Kell, .316.

Williams' 59 was the most runs scored and his 64 total for most runs batted in put him in a tie with Eddie Robinson of Chicago in that department.

Dom DiMaggio had the most hits, 90; Fain the most doubles, 21; Minoso the most triples, 9. Robinson and Gus Zernial of the Athletics were tied for most home runs at 15. Busby's 17 stolen bases was tops.

Randy Gumpert of Chicago continued on as the league's leading pitcher despite a defeat during the week. His record is seven victories and one defeat for .875. Vic Raschi of New York has the most strikeouts, 68.

Cardinals To Hold School

Bloomsburg — "Are there any potential major league ball players here?" is the question that veteran Red Bird scouts Frank Crespi, Harrison Wickel, John Brackenridge and C. S. Kelchner will be asking themselves when the St. Louis Cardinals conduct their tryout camp at State Teachers College field in Bloomsburg on July 9 and 10.

One Of Many

In the tryout camp at Bloomsburg, which is one of many such camps conducted throughout the country by the Cardinals, Crespi, Wickel, Brackenridge and Kelchner, will be looking for the natural ability in the ball players which can be developed into the smooth perfection which is required in the majors. They will watch each aspirant go through his paces, noting particularly his fielding, throwing, hitting and base-running. Those who are adjudged by the scouts to be future big league material will be signed to one of the 15 teams of the famous Cardinal farm system. There they will develop, through the top-notch coaching and invaluable experience of the minors, into veteran baseball players. The best of these will become the major league stars of tomorrow, when they will be more than amply rewarded for their previously expended effort.

The tryouts will begin at 11 a. m. each day for all interested between the ages of 17 and 23. Those who intend to attend are asked to bring their own shoes and gloves, and uniforms if possible. Expenses incident to attending the camp will be refunded to all players who are signed to contracts by the Red Bird scouts.

Sign Ontario Leaguer

Waterloo, Ont. (AP) — Mike Kvasnak, 19-year-old righthander from Sagamore, Pa., was signed by the Ashington Senators yesterday.

Kvasnak, pitching in the Ontario Inter-County league, will report to the Senators' Oranoke Rapids, N. C., farm team in the Class D Coastal Plain league.

Riley Lands Punch

St. Louis (AP)—Charley Riley of St. Louis scored a second-round technical knockout over Percy Bassett of Philadelphia, landing one solid punch that broke Bassett's jaw.

It was the only damaging punch during the brief bout and came midway in the second round.

Eastburg Loop Returns To Action Tonight

There was no action in the East Stroudsburg Little League last night, despite the fact that a meeting of the Cramer Lumber Co. and National Bank teams was announced for the East Stroudsburg Playground field.

This game was originally listed for Friday, but was rained out in the third inning. It was announced that the contest would be made up at the first open date, but plans were changed yesterday.

No Date

No date for a replay of the game has been announced at the present time.

Tonight's official schedule calls for Peter-Arnold-Howell to clash with the Methodists at the East Stroudsburg Playground, at 6:30.

The East Stroudsburg Little League schedule is so arranged that an open date appears on the agenda each week.

New League Virtually Set To Operate

Four teams are virtually ready to go to the post in the Inter-Boro baseball league, formed by Doug Schoonover, director of the Stroudsburg Playground, for boys from 13 to 15 years of age inclusive.

Sixty boys have been attending the diamond school at Gordon Giffels field for more than a week and 15 players have been assigned to each club.

Field

The league is expected to open in the very near future, with all action listed for Giffels field until a new field can be obtained. Each contest will be played as a twilight affair.

A flexible schedule will be arranged, Schoonover announced, so that the games of the Inter-Boro League may be played without conflicting with the home games of the Pocono A. C. entry in the Blue Mountain League. Pocono A. C. plays all its home games at Giffels field.

Roseto, East Bangor In Home Games

Roseto — Roseto A.A., currently in a deadlock for first place in the Blue Mountain league with Pocono A.C., plays host to the Tatamy Indians in an important contest at Roseto park tonight.

The most recent meeting of these two foes found the Indians gaining a hotly contested decision over Roseto, by an 8-7 count.

Manager Hal Nerino has been plagued with the lack of bench strength during the entire season and was recently dealt a severe blow when Phil "Bull" Braun entered the Marine Corps. This incident, coupled with a few cases of illnesses and injuries, forced Roseto to forfeit a crucial game to East Bangor on Sunday, because of lack of players.

Injured

Bob Muhr, ace lefty on the Roseto mound staff, wrenched his left knee on his second pitch of the ball game against East Bangor and will be out of action for an indefinite period.

Roseto will attempt to rebuild its sagging mound corps before the Saturday, June 30 player deadline.

Another important struggle on the Blue Mountain league agenda tonight will find West Bangor playing at East Bangor, with the help of the weatherman.

East Bangor is currently holding down third place in the standings, only one game behind Pocono A.C. and Roseto, who are currently tied for the top rung.

West Bangor has remained in the thick of the pennant fight since opening day and the defending regular season and playoff title holder is currently only two games off the pace at the present time.

Tomorrow night's schedule calls for East Bangor to play at Tatamy, while Johnsonville invades Portland.

All twilight games in the circuit will begin at 6:15 p.m.

Mulloy Advances In All England Tennis Action After Tough Struggle With Belgian Net Star

Wimbledon (AP)—Gardnar Mulloy, the smooth stroking veteran from Coral Gables, Fla., got the scare of his career late yesterday when he found himself two sets down in his opening match in the All-England tennis championships, but he fought back to defeat Philippe Washer of Belgium, 13-15, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-1.

He joined nine other seeded stars, four of them fellow Americans, in the second round of the classic.

The Davis Cup stalwart's close scrape was the nearest thing to an upset experienced by any of the world's top tennis figures in a day given over to reducing the big man's field by half. Victory in the marathon duel was a fine tribute to the physical condition of the 38-year-old American, who appeared headed for certain defeat by the youthful Belgian when the third set began.

Perhaps the day's most impressive victory was scored by Art Larsen, the slight American champion from San Leandro, Calif., when he trounced Mervyn Rose, promising young member of the Australian Davis Cup squad, by scores of 6-1, 6-2, 0-6, 6-1.

Defending champion Budge Patty of Los Angeles and Paris, still handicapped by the slow-healing ankle which caused him to be dropped to number four in the seeding, played strictly a baseline game in turning back Dave Lurie, South African Davis Cupper, 6-1, 6-1, 6-4.

Powerful Service

Dick Savitt of Orange, N. J., surprise winner of the last Australian championships, demonstrated a powerful service and a forceful ground game to his first Wimbledon audience in knocking out Nogel Cockburn of South Africa, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2. He was never extended.

Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., showed the crowd why he was seeded number five as he trounced Narath Kumar, a very "useful" Indian player, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2.

Highspot of the day for thousands of British enthusiasts was the center court match between Jaroslav Drobny, the number two seeded Czech now living in Egypt, and Baron Gottfried Von Cramm, the 42-year-old German ace who was one of the world's greatest players before the war.

The left-handed Drobny, only 32 and full of speed and power, finally won the decision, 9-7, 6-4, 6-4, but Von Cramm thrilled many of his old admirers by matching his opponent stroke for stroke until he finally lost his service in the fifteenth game of the opening set.

Von Cramm, three times a Wimbledon finalist before the war and participant in several still-talked-about matches with Don Budge and Fred Perry, proved himself still a master of the forehand drive and the sharply-angled volley, but his old-time stamina had deserted him.

Robinson Gains Support From Papers

By Don Doane

Frankfurt, Germany (AP)— Middleweight champion Ray Robinson flatly denied hitting Gerhardt Hecht, German light heavyweight, any foul blows in their turbulent non-title bout in Berlin Sunday night and West Berlin newspapers came to the New York Negro's defense.

Robinson, who worked out at a gym here yesterday, insisted "I never hit any foul blow. I knocked Hecht out clean. I should have won the fight.

'I haven't any hard feelings against anybody about this," said Sugar Ray, who had some time to cool off. "Not against the Berlin fans, the German people or even against the officials.

"I'm just sorry that some Germans may have gotten the wrong opinion, that they might think I really tried to win a fight by a foul. I don't have to win my fights that way.

"I am glad they took moving pictures of the fight. They will show there was no foul.

Fight Anywhere

Asked if he would fight again in Germany after his sad experience of Sunday, Robinson declared "I'll fight anywhere. I feel a champion owes that to the people.

"I'd even fight Hecht again, right in Berlin, with the same officials, just so we get a clear understanding about the rules before the fight."

"I'll swear, I never hit him anywhere near the kidneys. My punches were clean to his body—in front, not in back."

Robinson first was declared the loser on a foul for kidney punching —illegal in Germany—in the second round by Referee Otto Nispel but the officials verdict was overruled several hours later by the West Berlin Boxing Commission which declared it a "no decision" affair.

Some of the 25,000 fans in Waldebuehne stadium hurled bottles and other missiles into the ring after Hecht dropped to the canvas in the first round and again in the second round. The German writhed in pain and he and his handler yelled "foul."

Robinson was forced to duck under the ring to escape the shower of bottles. He then was escorted out of the ring by 20 policemen. Later he was escorted to an American military train and brought here.

Besides backing Robinson, the West Berlin papers chided the spectators for their rowdy conduct.

Stan Musial

Musial Paces National Loop In Hit Race

New York (AP) — Stan Musial's batting average shrunk 11 points to .371 last week but th St. Louis Cardinal star still has a six-point edge on Brooklyn's Jackie Robinson in the National league batting race. Robinson is hiting .365 on figures including Sunday's games.

It was a week of sinking averages generally among the top ten although Richie Ashburn of the Phils and Bob Elliott of Boston moved up to a third place tie at .349.

Al Dark of New York took over fifth place with .330 just ahead of Brooklyn's Roy Campanella who skidded eights points to .329. Frank Baumholtz of Chicago held seventh at .327 with Ralph Kiner of Pittsburgh eighth .320. Then came "Pee Wee" Rees of Brooklyn, and "Peanuts" Lowry, of St. Louis, tied at .315.

No Upheavals

There were no violent upheavals in the individual departments. Gil Hodges' feat of blasting three homers in Sunday's doubleheader at Pittsburgh sent him way out in front with 24 home runs. Kiner and Wally Westlake, now of St. Louis, each have 17 for a second-place tie. Hodges also moved past Dark to lead in runs scored, 55.

Westlake still led in runs batted in with 50, Ashburn had most hits, 91, and there was a four-way tie among Elliott, Robinson, Dark and Gus Bell of Pittsburgh for most doubles, 17. Musial's six triples still were high. Robinson took over the stolen base leadership with 11, one more than Boston's Sam Jethroe.

Preacher Roe of Brooklyn added one more win to his perfect record, now 10-0, only regular starter unbeaten in either league. Warren Spahn of Boston and Don Newcombe of Brooklyn each struck out 11 during the week to remain tied with 68.

Murder Trial Of Halfback Starts Today

Las Cruces, N. M. (AP) —Jerry Nuzum, star halfback of the Pittsburgh Steelers pro football team, goes on trial in District court today charged with murder and manslaughter.

The 27-year-old athlete is charged in connection with the 1949 death of Ovida (Cricket) Coogler, Las Cruces party girl and waitress.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed today that one of the 20 state witnesses subpoenaed for the trial is former Dona Ana County Sheriff A. L. (Happy) Apodaca. He was sheriff at the time the case was first investigated.

His handling of the case brought a grand jury investigation and last year he was charged with torturing a Negro suspect. Apodaca now is serving a one-year sentence on the charge.

Miss Coogler's body was found half buried under a mesquite bush on a sand-swept mesa south of Las Cruces April 16, 1949.

Sarazen Selects Mangrum As Man To Beat In PGA Tourney

Oakmont, Pa., (AP)—Gene Sarazen called Oakmont "the Joe Louis of golf courses" yesterday and predicted the thirty-third professional Golfers association championship will go to the "slugger who can think."

"With Ben Hogan not in the field, I think Lloyd Mangrum has the best chance to take it," added the squat squire from Germantown, N. Y., a competitor in the PGA since 1920.

Mangrum, 36-year-old campaigner from Niles, Ill., is one of the sports grim battlers, fashioned along the Hogan lines. A leading money winner, he has never won the PGA.

"No outsider will win this tournament," Sarazen said. "Just as at Oakland Hills a few days ago in the Open, one of the top three or four players in the country will come through, and who could overlook Mangrum?

"This is a real championship course—a magnificent test of golf. The man with a good driving and putting game should have the least trouble He needn't go after birdies. He'll have to be content with pars."

Long Grind

The week-long grind, which even the mighty Hogan admits is now too rugged for him, begins tomorrow with two days of qualifying to reduce the field from 140 to the low 64.

Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., the defending champion, qualifies automatically but will seek the special medalist award of $250.

After the 36-hole qualifying test, matches start Friday on a grueling two-rounds-a-day basis. Two rounds Friday will reduce the field to 16. Then begin 36-hole duels with the third round Saturday, quarter-finals Sunday, semi-finals Monday and the championship match next Tuesday.

"The Open has the prestige but the PGA is the toughest tournament in the world to win," said Sarazen, who holds three PGA and two Open crowns.

Hogan, recent winner of his third Open crown, decided two years ago his aging legs, shattered in a 1949 automobile accident, could no longer stand the terrific strain of a PGA tournament.

Sarazen is one of ten past champions, including Harper, who will seek the title during the next week.

The others are little Paul Runyan of Pasadena, Calif., 1934-1938; Johnny Revolta, of Evanston, Ill., 1935; Denny Shute, of Akron, Ohio, 1936-37; Henry Picard, of Cleveland, 1939; Vic Ghezzi, of Inwood, N. Y., 1941; Sam Snead, of White Sulphur Springs, West Va., 1942-49; Bob Hamilton, of Evansville, Ind., 1944, and Jim Ferrier, of San Francisco, 1947.

Frank S. LaBar Elected President Of Hospital Board

Frank S. LaBar, president of LaBar's Rhododendron Nursery, was elected president of the General Hospital Board of Directors at an annual meeting held in the hospital last night.

In addition to electing nine directors, the session also resulted in selection of three other officers.

Edward C. Jenkins, officer of Buck Hill Falls Co., was reelected vice president. Mr. Jenkins has served on the board since 1938 and directed the activities of the board operations during the illness of Attorney C. Raymond Bensinger, whose long term of office ended with Mr. LaBar's election last night. Mr. Bensinger was elected honorary president of the board.

Frank S. LaBar

Mr. Bensinger is the third president of the hospital, since its founding in 1915. First president was Luther S. Hoffman, East Stroudsburg, and the second John N. Gish, East Stroudsburg. Mr. Bensinger carried the heavy responsibilities connected with the building program which resulted in the $1,400,000 hospital addition.

J. H. Stoffiet, Stroudsburg veteran board member and chairman of the building committee which directed the manifold matters connected with construction of the modern three-and four-story structure, was reelected treasurer of the board. He succeeded the late Frank L. Patterson to the treasurership.

Mrs. Fred W. Davis, secretary of the board of directors for some 26 years, was reelected. Mrs. Davis' long term of service to the institution has included two building programs, the last of which produced the present modern institution.

These directors were named last night.

Attorney Charles R. Bensinger, East Stroudsburg and Ben Josephson, manager of Camp Tamiment, are two new members.

Reelected to the board were J. H. Stofflet, Stroudsburg; Joseph B. Warne, Portland; Arlington W. Williams, Stroudsburg; Mrs. Richard Crooks, Buck Hill Falls; Mrs. Fred W. Davis, East Stroudsburg; Merle C. Ostrom, Stroudsburg; Walter S. Peeney, East Stroudsburg; Mrs. Raymond Price, Mountainhome.

Director authorized renewal of their contract with Blue Cross.

Announcement was made that a fourth Federal-State grant toward construction costs of the new addition, amounting to better than $67,000, will be received.

Board members discussed a suitable sign and directional signs for the institution.

Red Party Losing German Members

Frankfurt, Germany (AP) — The Communist party in West Germany is in its worst sinking spell since the war, despite Soviet-inspired efforts to strengthen it for the cold war.

Official figures show 15,000 Communists have deserted the party this year. The present membership of 130,000 is the smallest in occupation history.

Allied sources reported yesterday that the latest campaign to pump life into the Red movement here is an obvious flop. This involved sending 5,000 clandestine agitators into the western zones from East Germany in the past few months.

The influx of new organizers brought a purge of eight of 11 state chairmen in the West German party.

The polonaise, a stately dance, probably was originated in 1573 to honor the election of Henry, duke of Anjou to the throne of Poland.

Jersey Man Arrested As Fugitive

Steve Barone, 48, of Rutherford, N.J., wanted in New Jersey as a fugitive from justice, was taken into custody yesterday by two State troopers from the Stroudsburg substation.

Prcs. Donald J. Henzey and Steven Sabin arrested Barone at 2:30 p.m. at a point near the Stroudsburgs. The prisoner waived extradition and last night was returned to Bergen county, N.J., by Sgt. Matthew Kraft and Detective Frank W. Halley, of the deputy attorney general's office, Hackensack, N.J.

Troopers here said information indicating that Barone might be in the Pocono mountain area touched off a check of this region for trace of the missing fugitive. When the man was picked up, New Jersey State police were advised immediately.

The New Jersey officers said Barone has been wanted in Bergen county on a charge of conspiracy.
